Vast Loss Feared as Lightning Ignites Oil Tank

ARTILLERY USED IN EFFORT TO SAVE ADJACENT TANKS

Runaway Well in Oklahoma Still Roars Defiance to Futile Efforts of Workers.

ARMED MEN GUARD 15-MILE FRONTAGE

More Than 500 Acres Coated With Thick Layer of Oil and Grease From Geyser.

ELDORADO, Ark., April 2.—(AP)—A three-inch cannon was utilized by firemen tonight in an effort to extinguish a blazing 55,000-barrel oil tank in the "tank farm" of the Magnolia Petroleum Company, near here, ignited by a stroke of lightning. The fire threatened 25 other oil-filled tanks in the farm.

Five holes were blown in the metal tank by the cannon to drain the oil into earthen pits. Thus it was hoped to prevent the oil boiling over the tank and setting fire to adjacent oil storage basins.

Company officials estimated the present loss at $50,000.

RUNAWAY WELL ROARS DEFIANCE

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 2.—(UN)—A runaway oil well, which has defied a six-day effort to cap it, roared defiance tonight to a handful of workers who still hope to stop its mad flow.

Pressure in the Mary Sudik well, the roar of which could be heard over traffic in Oklahoma City, became less today, oil men said, and the possibility of stopping it tomorrow appeared probable.

Today's attempts to stop the flow of the geyser were found useless and the men were employed in pumping oil from the engine rooms at the base of the well. The oil had covered the rooms to a depth of 12 feet, despite earthen bulwarks and other precautions.

The oil spout, waving like a golden plume in the wind, has covered more than 500 acres with a thick layer of oil and grease. Much of this is farm land and crops have been ruined and scores of farms deserted since the rain of oil began last week.

Pat Sutton, a hefty Irishman familiar to thousands in the South City field, was directing the work.

Hollow-eyed, unshaven, clad in a heavy rubber suit and wearing a "tin hat" similar to those worn during the World War by American doughboys, Sutton has not left the field since the geyser erupted. All the tricks he learned as a "geyser wrangler" more than 20 years ago have been employed. He is confident he will control this well.

Sutton estimated the geyser, spouting oil and gas 200 feet skyward, has spewed 35,000 barrels of oil daily and the entire wastage is 10,000,000 gallons of light gravity oil. During the past 36 hours, despite the fire danger, about 25,000 barrels were recovered.

Sutton estimated the value of oil and gas lost at $300,000, with an additional $100,000 damage to the well. The fire danger remained imminent tonight, with weather forecasters predicting overcast skies. A bolt of lightning or a spark would set the huge column afire and would probably result in destruction of the South City field, oil men said.

Ordinary firefighting equipment would prove useless, they said, and men could only approach the flames if they wore asbestos suits or were protected by asbestos shields.

A specially constructed cap weighing 3,000 pounds has been built and tomorrow workmen will attempt to fit it over the well mouth.

None was permitted in the field today except officials and laborers. Airplanes, ordered from above the field yesterday, remained away today, and armed guards patrolled the 15-mile frontage and guarded roads approaching the district.

Second Dry Law Break Hard for Aged Woman

MOBILE, Ala., April 2.—(AP)—A 76-year-old white woman faced three months in prison and $100 fine or 90 added days in jail today after conviction of second offense in violating the prohibition law.

Judge Alex Howard imposed the additional three months sentence, compulsory under the law, against Mrs. Annie Williamson.

Her attorneys filed notice of appeal.

PHILP TO INSPECT PROFFERED SITES FOR P. O. BUILDING

Failure To Decide on Central of Georgia Property Leaves Location Still Unsettled.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, April 2.—(Special)—Failing in a series of conferences today to reach a definite decision on the proposals made yesterday on the Central of Georgia Railway property, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General John W. Philp indicated tonight that he would probably go to Atlanta for a final inspection of sites before deciding on a location for the new $2,100,000 federal building authorized by the city.

The suggestion that he visit the city again before selecting a site was made in telegraphic communications to Mr. Philp from Mayor Ragsdale and prominent businessmen of Atlanta.

After conferring with treasury department officials much of the day and finding himself and the others unable to agree on the selection of the Central of Georgia site, the fourth assistant postmaster general spent some time late this afternoon studying his appointment calendar in an effort to arrive in Atlanta by the next morning.

While expressing a desire to follow the suggestion of Mayor Ragsdale and defer selection of a site until an opportunity to make another inspection, he said he had been unable for the moment to find a satisfactory date for leaving the capital, as he has no objection to the necessary additional delay.

Pending an opportunity to study his plans further, he said he would withhold a reply for the time being, but added he hoped to inform the mayor definitely tomorrow.

"If I decide definitely to go to Atlanta, as suggested," said Mr. Philp, "we will, of course, hold up a decision on the Central of Georgia site until after I return. The interdepartmental committee charged with jurisdiction over the government building program spent practically the entire day in going over the proposals submitted yesterday on this site. Because of the complicated situation, growing out of the presence of many factors in connection with the site, we did not find sufficient time in which to come to a conclusion. I hope to be able to notify Mayor Ragsdale of my plans tomorrow. Certainly I will let him know something."

The interdepartmental committee referred to by Mr. Philp consists of himself, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Perry Heath, and James A. Wetmore, supervising architect of the treasury, while the proposals considered were presented during a series of conferences with President A. E. Cliff, of the Central of Georgia Railway; R. B. Pegram, vice president of the Southern Railway, and Charles A. Wickham, of the Atlanta Terminal Company, all of whom were summoned to Washington for the purpose of adjusting, if possible, differences that heretofore have arisen over terms for acquisition of the Central site.

The exact nature of the proposals submitted were not revealed by either group of officials. It was clear, however, that both the Terminal and Central officials informed the government finally what terms and concessions they would be willing to make in the event the site adjacent to the station is accepted.

Mr. Philp said the failure of the interdepartmental committee to reach a decision today did not necessarily mean that the Central site will be eliminated. It will not be stricken from the list until a careful examination of all details of the proposition can be made.

At the same time the amount of time spent in considering the proposals today is taken to mean that negotiations are present which easily might cause the government heads to go elsewhere for a site. It had been the expectation that a decision at least so far as the Central site is concerned would be forthcoming today, after going over the terms outlined yesterday by the Atlanta Railway and Terminal officials.

Although no definite information has been given at either the treasury or the postoffice department, there are reasons to believe that the committee is favorable to property offered by the Trust Company of Georgia as a second choice. The site includes an entire block bounded by Garrett, Spring, Forsyth and Trinity avenues, which was offered to the government for $480,170, or considerably less than

JAPANESE ACCEPT PROPOSAL OF U.S. ON NAVAL RATIOS

Action Assures Three-Power Pact and Revives Five-Power Treaty Hopes.

BY WEBB MILLER.
United News Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, April 2.—Japan officially accepted the American naval proposals today, and a plenary session of the five-power conference, scheduled for Friday, was postponed until next week to give further time for an Anglo-French security agreement.

These developments were hailed with delight by the American delegates.

"The situation is much improved over last week," Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson told the press after the delegation heads had deferred the plenary session. "I am much more optimistic for a five-power agreement than I was at that time."

Considerable formality was observed when Japan's official acceptance of the American figures was announced to Stimson, Senator David A. Reed and Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald by Japanese Ambassador Taneo Matsudaira. The four men met at 3:15 p. m. in the first committee room of St. James' palace.

Japan's two reservations to the agreement will be taken up in detail tomorrow, but it was reliably learned the Americans and British have already decided to accept them.

While MacDonald was at St. James' Chancery of Exchequer, Philip Snowden represented him in the House of Commons and successfully parried questions as to the exact nature of the formula by which Britain is seeking to satisfy French security demands.

Asked whether any changes were contemplated in the League of Nations' covenant, with respect to joint action against an aggressor, Snowden said:

"No. I gather this question refers only to conversations which may proceed at London at the present time. Of course, that does not prejudice discussions which may be held by the League of Nations regarding amendment of the covenant."

George S. Harris, president of the Exposition Cotton Mills, of Atlanta, for more than 10 years and one of the foremost textile executives in the country, announced Wednesday that he had resigned his position with the large local concern. The resignation was tendered at a meeting of the board of directors of the mills last Friday and was accepted, to become effective immediately, Mr. Harris said. His successor has not been announced.

"My plans for the future are not mature," Mr. Harris said Wednesday night, "but they will be announced in a few days. While I can't say definitely at this time, I hope that my arrangements will permit me to remain in Atlanta. I will remain as president of the Exposition until my successor assumes the office."

Mr. Harris, who, at a meeting here in 1926, made the original suggestion leading to the formation of the Cotton Textile Institute, became president of the Exposition Mills in 1920, after many years of experience in the textile field in other parts of the country. He attended the United States Naval Academy, then Georgia Tech and finally, the Lowell Textile school, at Lowell, Mass., from which he was graduated.

After serving as superintendent at several cotton mills in Alabama and one at East Point, Ga., Mr. Harris was named superintendent of the Lanett Cotton Mills, at West Point, Ga., in which capacity he served also as agent for the Lanett Bleachery and Dye Works. He held those positions at West Point for 13 years, and came to Atlanta in 1920 to assume the post from which he now is retiring.

For a number of years Mr. Harris has been prominent in cotton association work. For three years—1924, 1925 and 1926—he was president of the Georgia Cotton Manufacturers' Association, and in 1927 was president of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association, which includes in its membership roll all of the southern cotton mills and most of those in the east. It was at a meeting of the American Association, at the Biltmore hotel here in 1926, that Mr. Harris was instrumental in the organization of the Cotton Textile Institute. His suggestions were adopted by the convention and the formation of the institute put under way before the meeting was adjourned. Since the institute's foundation, Mr. Harris has served as a member of its executive committee.

One of Atlanta's best-known citizens, he has taken wide interest in civic and social affairs. He is a class "C" director of the federal reserve bank of the Sixth district, Atlanta; a director of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, and a member of the Rotary Club and the Druid Hills and Capital City Clubs.

PLAN PROPOSED TO AID SCHOOLS

Crystallization of the effort of the Atlanta board of education to "sell" the Atlanta public school system to the citizens of the borough of Atlanta was Wednesday following a meeting of a special committee of the board, and a proposal to increase borough tax assessments probably will be offered to voters in a referendum if the plan is successful.

Citizens—leaders in every walk of life—will be asked to attend a series of conferences as a preliminary to working out details of the proposed plan, it was announced by Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, chairman of the board's committee.

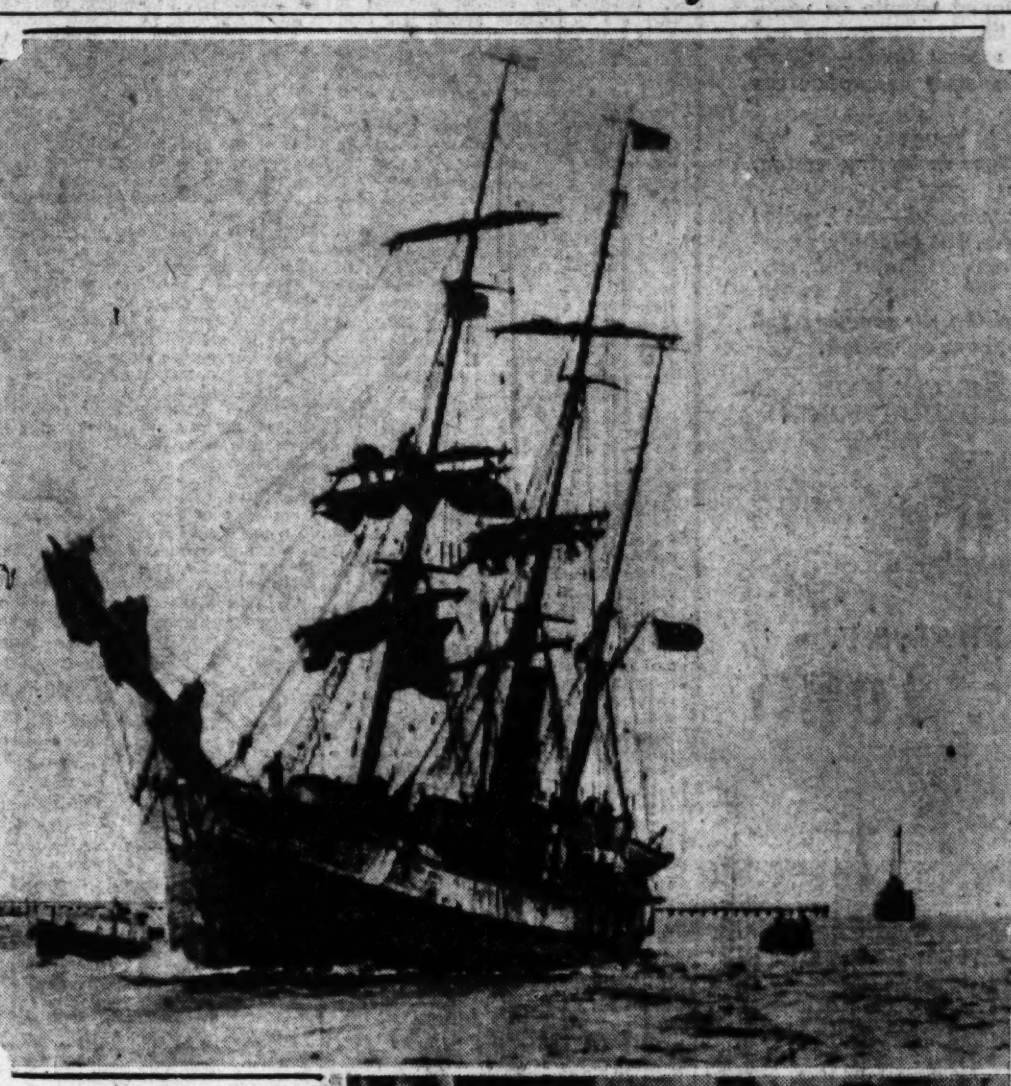

The group held a meeting Wednesday afternoon in the office of John T. Hancock, commissioner from the eighth ward and a member of the "public relations" committee of the board. W. W. Gaines, commissioner from the third ward, is the third member of the committee.

Administration officials were instructed to prepare the case of the school system and when all the data are completed, the entire matter will be presented at a public meeting to be attended by civic clubs, business, labor and commercial leaders of Atlanta.

If the school system is properly "sold" to those who attend the citizens' session, Mr. Gilliam will ask council to approve and the democratic executive committee to place on the ballot a proposal to increase assessments from 70 to 75 per cent of the value of realty and personal property with the understanding that Fulton county reduce its assessment from 70 per cent of the borough's assessment to 65 per cent.

This, Mr. Gilliam pointed out, would give the county approximately the same income it has at the present time, and would raise about $500,000 additional for school purposes.

Enumerator Calls on Hoover As Fifteenth Census Starts

BY H. O. THOMPSON.
United News Staff Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, April 2.—The census-taker called at the White House today and President Hoover cheerfully surrendered all the information desired, at the same time speaking a word to the nation and asking co-operation in the tremendous task of enumerating its millions of inhabitants.

As head of the family at 1800 Pennsylvania avenue, Mr. Hoover personally answered all the questions asked. He said he was an engineer, 54 years of age, that he could read and write and was 25 years old when married.

J. Sterling Moran, census supervisor for the District of Columbia, called at the White House after Mr. Hoover had stepped over for luncheon from the temporary executive offices in state, war and navy building.

The scene was laid on the steps of the south portico, with the sweep of the spacious south lawn just beyond, and was not rehearsed. Mr. Hoover, with Secretary of Commerce Lamont, descended the steps, handed his folded schedule to Moran, who tucked it away in a huge portfolio, and said:

"I have already prepared this paper for you. It is well that the American people know that the census is confidential but there is no special reason for secrecy here.

The form made out by Mr. Hoover was exactly the same as that used throughout the country, except that the president was not asked to fill in the employment schedule. He gave his name as head of the family and Mrs. Hoover's as "wife." He said in answer to the question whether he owned or rented his place of abode, that he "occupied" it. He owns a home in Washington but was not required to register it.

The answer concerning Mrs. Hoover's age was not made public.

WITNESS STATES HE TOLD PRICE OF COMMISSION

When White's Cut Was Increased, Business Showed Big Gain, Puritan Treasurer Asserts.

BOYKIN WILL REST CASE THIS MORNING

Defense Then Will Have Inning; Lawyers Uncertain How Much Time They Will Need.

Testimony to the effect that Jack White was paid 50 per cent commissions for city orders by the Puritan Chemical Company, given Wednesday by A. L. Feldman, treasurer of the company, was the feature of the first day of the trial of White, business partner of Counselman Harry York, resigned, who is accused of defrauding the city of Atlanta.

Feldman declared that he notified City Purchasing Agent William P. Price of the commission arrangements and offered to eliminate White and sell direct at approximately half the cost to the city. He charged that White openly boasted that he had the city's business "screwed up" and that when his firm agreed to an increase in the former's commission to 50 per cent the city orders, allotted to the Puritan company immediately showed a big increase.

Just before the close of Wednesday afternoon's session the state introduced its first evidence to support the third and fourth counts in the White indictment, alleging fraud in the purchase of the two motor vehicles by the councilman purchasing committee when it put W. H. Alexander, secretary of the Le Roux Motor Company, on the stand and directed from him by questioning that he had paid to White two checks for "using his influence" to put the purchase through the committee.

The defense will get its inning today. At the close of Wednesday's session Solicitor General Boykin said he had only a few more witnesses to offer before resting the state's case, adding that a little more than an hour would be needed to obtain their evidence.

White is expected to take the stand in his own defense, though the members of his legal staff have given no indication what that defense will be other than to plead that he was operating legitimately as a broker and salesman and assert that all of his transactions with the city and those in charge of the operations of its government were not illegal in any way. A number of other witnesses will be offered, White's counsel said Wednesday night, asserting they were unable to say how long it would take them to present their side of the case.

Appearing as the state's star witness will be the man on whose testimony the prosecution is depending to

Georgians Condemn Naming Of Negro Census-Takers

Ramspeck, Other Representatives of State Protest Colored Enumerators; Move Is Attacked.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—(Special.)—Employment of colored enumerators in connection with the national census just getting under way in Georgia today brought forth additional protests from members of the state congressional delegation who in messages and communications to census supervisors in the state strongly condemned the appointments and demanded that they be rescinded.

Perhaps the most vigorous protest to develop today came from Representative Robert Ramspeck, of the fifth Georgia district. In a telegram to Collector of Internal Revenue J. T. Rose of Atlanta, leader of the recognized republican faction in the state, he urged that the colored appointments be "cancelled immediately," adding: "To have negroes enter white homes for census enumeration is most objectionable and not good for either race."

Ramspeck's Letter.

At the same time Representative Ramspeck addressed a communication to Dr. Elizabeth L. Branch, census supervisor of the Atlanta district, in which he charged that the census enumerators were being employed at the direction of the dominant republican organization with a view of controlling the forthcoming republican state convention.

"This type of political manipulation," said Mr. Ramspeck, "is a shame and disgrace to the republican party and will be condemned by the better element of both parties."

A similar protest was sent by Representative Samuel Rutherford of the sixth Georgia district, to George L. Blossom, supervisor of the Macon census district. Previously Mr. Blossom had wired the Georgia congressman that he intended using white colored enumerators in strictly colored districts of Macon.

The protests of Representatives Ramspeck and Rutherford followed action of the same tenor taken yesterday by Senator W. J. Harris and Representative Charles G. Edwards of Georgia.

Harris Hits Move.

Senator Harris called Director of the Census William M. Stewart over the telephone late yesterday to express his opposition to the move and demanded that colored census takers be confined to colored districts if they are to be used at all. He took issue with the statement of Mr. Stewart that the colored enumerators would be found able to obtain census data from negroes more readily than white workers.

All of the protests have been forwarded to Director Stewart, but there was nothing to indicate today that the enumeration list, previously announced in the various Georgia districts, will be changed.

Other members of the Georgia congressional group are making inquiries to determine the number, if any, of colored workers employed in their respective districts. Further repercussions on the subject are therefore expected to develop later.

In his telegram to Mrs. Branch, Representative Ramspeck said: "Your night letter just received replying to my telegram of yesterday advising that you had appointed 20 negro enumerators in Fulton county is first intimation I have had of such action. I emphatically protest against your unfortunate action and urge immediate cancellation of these appointments. There is no separate census for the races. There are thousands of good and competent white men and women out of employment in your district who would be glad to get these appointments."

"As many splendid white women and men have been named by you to the same class of position there is an element of official equality between the races in these negro appointments that is most objectionable and will tend to create friction. The effort to control the republican convention soon to meet in Atlanta should not go to the extent of buying control with negro appointments."

"In the interest of the welfare of both races and of state these negro appointments should be rescinded at once by you. This type of political manipulation is a shame and disgrace to the republican party and will be condemned by the better element of both parties. Am filing copy of this protest with director of census."

Three Street Cars Bombed in Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, April 2.—(AP)—Four bombs wrecked three street cars last night and endangered the lives of 25 passengers riding on the cars. A renewal of the periodic trolley dynamiting that has agitated the city since the street car men walked out on strike last July.

For the first time since the transportation system bombings started last summer, one trolley was blasted twice. As in the long list of previous bombings, police and federal marshals today had little or nothing on which to work in their attempts to fix responsibility.

Last night's dynamitings occurred within a few minutes apart and were all in the upper section of the city. The first explosion went off under a Freer car at Broadway and Beale street as the car was making its last trip for the night, and carried no passengers. A front wheel on a front truck of the trolley was cracked and window glass shattered. The car was moving with difficulty toward the trolley barn, it was again bombed, and further damaged. In both explosions the motorman and conductor escaped injury.

A little later another Freer car, loaded with 25 men and women passengers, was blasted when it rolled over a charge of explosive laid between the rails. Floorboards were torn up and a wheel was broken, but none of the passengers was hurt. The crew also escaped injury.

The second explosion occurred in front of the Loyola University stadium. A few minutes afterward a magazine car was blown up on Broadway between Benjamin and Hurst streets. Five passengers escaped injury. The damage was similar to that resulting from the other explosions.

MAN DEFENDS DOG, MAY LAND IN COURT

MARION, Ohio, April 2.—(AP)—The love of man for his dog is legendary—but sometimes it may cause trouble.

That is exactly what happened to Patrick Drake of this city. Drake faces indictment in federal court at Toledo on a charge of retarding the delivery of the United States mail.

Drake owns the sort of dog who puts his nose in a chap's hand, and wags his tail when he sees him coming home after work. When Paul A. Fetter, mail carrier, had an argument with the dog and struck him, Drake became angry. Fetter said the dog lunged at him when he entered the yard to deliver mail.

But Drake, true to the lore of masters and their dogs, avenged his pup. He jerked Fetter's mail bag from his shoulder and a fight followed.

FLORIDA LEGIONNAIRES NAME BENTLEY LEADER

Lakeland Lawyer Chosen at Close of State Meeting.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., April 2.—(AP)—Ed. R. Bentley, Lakeland, today was elected commander of the Florida American Legion at the annual convention.

Bentley is an attorney and civic leader of Lakeland. He is president of the Lakeland Rotary Club and a past commander of the legion post there.

The following vice commanders were elected for the six Florida districts: First—George W. Coleman, West Palm Beach. Second—Henry Moody, Plant City. Third—Fred W. Walker, Monticello. Fourth—A. C. Blount, Pensacola. Fifth—Harvey E. Robinson, Arcadia.

Sixth—Rupert Smith, Arcadia. Mrs. Ira C. Hopper, Lakeland, was elected state president of the Florida department of the American Legion auxiliary, meeting in connection with the legion.

Mrs. Rupert Smith, Arcadia, was chosen vice president at large, and Mrs. Amos Norris, Tampa, was named historian. Mrs. F. J. Davenport, Miami, was selected chaplain.

Delegates to the national convention of the auxiliary and other minor officers were chosen at the concluding session today.

Emmett Saffay, of Jacksonville, was chosen judge advocate, and Charles Mills, Miami, national committeeman. James W. Morris, Tampa, was made alternate national committeeman.

George W. Dolson, Ocala, was elected historian, and the Rev. Dandall Blackford, of Leesburg, was selected to succeed himself as chaplain.

The convention adopted a resolution pledging the legion to assist in solving the problems confronting the public school systems in many counties of the state as one of the features of the final day's session. The resolution provided for the appointment by the state commander of a committee composed of one member from each of the six legion districts to make a survey of the public school needs and requested that each post in the state appoint a committee to co-operate in the survey. A report is to be made at the midsummer legion conference under the provisions of the resolution.

Another resolution urging the state administration to establish a tuberculosis sanatorium in Florida, as soon as possible, was adopted. The resolution pointed out that the 1927 legislature had made provision for the appropriation of $300,000 for construction of such a sanatorium, but that nothing had been done toward the actual building of the structure.

Adoption by the state of a definite program of wild life conservation and restoration and a request made that each legion post work along this line in its territory in an another resolution.

The stand of the legion against its participation in partisan politics was reiterated and the convention went on record as disapproving.

West Move Defeated.

BOSTON, April 2.—(AP)—The Massachusetts senate today refused to enact the initiative petition to repeal the state prohibition enforcement act. The roll call vote was 28 to 11. This action duplicating that taken by the house of representatives yesterday kills the bill in the legislature.

Its sponsors must obtain 5,000 more signatures to have it placed on the ballot next November.

MARRIAGE CLIMAXES 'TRAVELING' ROMANCE

Suitor Follows Sweetheart on Three Continents To Win Hand.

NEW YORK, April 2.—(AP)—After a courtship beset with difficulties in soviet Russia, Miss Margaret Pollitzer, of New York, and Lindsay Hoben, Milwaukee newspaperman, were married here yesterday.

The bride, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Pollitzer, is a director of the Walden school, an institution which adopts experimental methods. Mr. Hoben is a son of Dr. and Mrs. Allen Hoben, of Kalamazoo, Mich. Dr. Hoben is president of Kalamazoo college.

The marriage was performed at the Pollitzer Park avenue home by Dr. John Elliott, of the Ethical Cultural Society.

The couple first met last September in central Russia when Miss Pollitzer boarded a train at the village of Chudova at midnight and was thrust into a compartment occupied by Mr. Hoben, his brother and a cousin. The train was filled and when investigation showed the members of the Hoben party had no tickets they were put off.

Mr. Hoben and his party secretly boarded another train and again met Miss Pollitzer in Tashkent, some 1,600 miles away. They were forced to flee, however, when word reached them that news of their arrival in a region barred to foreigners had been received by the soviet police and that they were to be arrested. After a flight through Samarkand they were again joined by Miss Pollitzer in Tashkent. Although Hoben said he pursued Miss Pollitzer through Syria, Turkey, Greece and Bulgaria, she did not promise to marry him until after his return to this country three weeks ago. Miss Pollitzer, who had been making a study of the soviet educational system, returned on the maiden voyage of the Europa.

A HOTEL OF THE HIGHEST TYPE

It Took 32 Years to build the 1930 MONCRIEF.

In design and construction, the 1930 Model Moncrief Furnace is recognized as the one outstanding leader in the field. Yet this position of dominance was not gained in a single year, nor even in a score of years. It has taken practically a third of a century to build so fine a furnace.

And that span of time has been filled with constant effort and patient study with carefully planned improvements that led to a finer and more efficient furnace every year.

There is a 1930 Model Moncrief designed to meet the heating requirements of every home from the bungalow to the palace. The same exacting skillful design is applied to every installation regardless of its size or cost. The location of pipes, registers and cold air ducts is scientifically planned and every installation is covered by Moncrief's Ironclad Guarantee of "Seventy Degrees Regardless of Weather."

Ask your architect, builder or Realtor about this newest Moncrief Furnace or one of our engineers will gladly call and explain in detail the advantages of this fine heating system.

Three Street Cars Bombed in Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, April 2.—(AP)—Four bombs wrecked three street cars last night and endangered the lives of 25 passengers riding on the cars. A renewal of the periodic trolley dynamiting that has agitated the city since the street car men walked out on strike last July.

For the first time since the transportation system bombings started last summer, one trolley was blasted twice. As in the long list of previous bombings, police and federal marshals today had little or nothing on which to work in their attempts to fix responsibility.

Last night's dynamitings occurred within a few minutes apart and were all in the upper section of the city. The first explosion went off under a Freer car at Broadway and Beale street as the car was making its last trip for the night, and carried no passengers. A front wheel on a front truck of the trolley was cracked and window glass shattered. The car was moving with difficulty toward the trolley barn, it was again bombed, and further damaged. In both explosions the motorman and conductor escaped injury.

A little later another Freer car, loaded with 25 men and women passengers, was blasted when it rolled over a charge of explosive laid between the rails. Floorboards were torn up and a wheel was broken, but none of the passengers was hurt. The crew also escaped injury.

The second explosion occurred in front of the Loyola University stadium. A few minutes afterward a magazine car was blown up on Broadway between Benjamin and Hurst streets. Five passengers escaped injury. The damage was similar to that resulting from the other explosions.

MAN DEFENDS DOG, MAY LAND IN COURT

MARION, Ohio, April 2.—(AP)—The love of man for his dog is legendary—but sometimes it may cause trouble.

That is exactly what happened to Patrick Drake of this city. Drake faces indictment in federal court at Toledo on a charge of retarding the delivery of the United States mail.

Drake owns the sort of dog who puts his nose in a chap's hand, and wags his tail when he sees him coming home after work. When Paul A. Fetter, mail carrier, had an argument with the dog and struck him, Drake became angry. Fetter said the dog lunged at him when he entered the yard to deliver mail.

But Drake, true to the lore of masters and their dogs, avenged his pup. He jerked Fetter's mail bag from his shoulder and a fight followed.

Note, Madam... the wide difference between KELVINATOR'S

4-WAY COLD and ordinary electric refrigeration

- Automatic Fast Freezing—Greater Ice Capacity. Even without Kelvinator's extra-fast freezing compartment, is provided by Kelvinator. De luxe models provide more ice, size for size, than any other refrigerator with capacities from 20 pounds in the smallest size to 34 pounds in the largest size—at a single freezing. Of course, several freezings a day are possible.
- Automatic Super-Fast Freezing—for the extra-fast freezing of ice cubes and desserts. Iso-Thermic Tubes, an exclusive Kelvinator discovery, provide for the first time amazingly fast automatic freezing of ice cubes and desserts. Merely placing a tray of water or dessert in a special fast-freezing compartment starts the quick freezing operation, which stops automatically. Nothing to regulate. Nothing to trouble the memory.
- Automatic Cold Storage—For storing fresh or frozen meats, fish, game and those new frozen delicacies you now find at many markets. Cold always below freezing. Beef and other meats kept in the Kelvinator cold storage compartment are actually improved in tenderness and flavor. Another new development—exclusive to Kelvinator De Luxe models.
- Automatic 40° to 50° Food Compartment—for the scientific refrigeration of all ordinary foods, the main compartment of Kelvinator is maintained between 40° and 50°—always—the temperature range which science says must be constantly maintained for dependable and healthful preservation of foods.

Only Kelvinator Brings You These Valuable Features

- 1—in One Compartment—a 40° to 50° Constant Cold—just the right temperature, science says, to keep most foods fresh.
 - 2—in a Second Compartment—a Below-Freezing-Cold for Cold Storage of meats, game, fish, ice cream, etc.
 - 3—in a Third Compartment—a Third-Degree-of-Cold for freezing ice and desserts.
 - 4—in a Fourth Compartment—a Very Low Cold for extra-quick ice and desserts.
- All of these degrees of cold are in constant service doing the work you want done without thought or effort on your part because—all are automatic.

KELVINATOR'S 4-WAY COLD gives you four different degrees of cold in four different compartments of the cabinet. These four different degrees are constantly and automatically maintained. In ordinary electric refrigeration it is possible to speed up ice-making—but to do this requires lowering the temperature throughout the entire cabinet. This may result in food-spoilage, through freezing. Contrast this with 4-Way Cold which gives you

Most Liberal Credit Offer Now On in Prize Campaign

New Subscriptions Secured at This Time Will Bring Big Credit Returns.

The greatest bargain period for credits in The Atlanta Constitution's $25,000 prize campaign is now on. Until April 19 a bonus of 100,000 extra credits will be given for every $20 club of new prepaid subscriptions, and a bonus of 50,000 extra credits will be given for every $30 club of new contract subscriptions and inasmuch as candidates are not limited to just one club, the special offer provides the means whereby a generous credit total can be amassed.

This is positively the most liberal credit offer to be made during the campaign and this first period is expected to be a big factor in determining who shall become the owners of the awards.

The campaign, of course, does not end until May 31, and it is just now getting under way. New subscriptions are worth more credits at the beginning than they will be later. All the regular credits are given as usual on $20 clubs, the extra credits being in a nature of a bonus for the good work that is done.

$500 Special Gold.

Five hundred dollars in gold is going to be awarded to the seven candidates who turn in the highest amounts of new subscription business during the period starting March 28 and ending April 19. The first prize is $200, second $100, third $75, fourth $50, fifth $25, sixth $25, seventh $25.

These will be given in addition to the regular awards and new subscriptions turned in on the extra credit offers ending April 19 also count towards winning the additional $500 in gold.

Not a Puzzle Contest.

The Atlanta Constitution's $25,000 prize campaign is NOT a puzzle contest.

Hospital - Tested Medicine Real Joy To Thin People

Authorities tell us impoverished blood, due to lack of vital mineral and nutritive salts in modern refined foods, is largely responsible for sallow, pimply complexions, obstinate constipation, sour stomach, poor digestion, loss of flesh and general physical weakness.

A noted New York hospital physician first wrote the IROGEN prescription for use among his own patients. In hospitals and private practice, before its introduction to the public, its amazing importance as a great medical achievement was thoroughly proven. Since being given to the public under the name of IROGEN, thousands of users, as well as physicians, have testified to its astounding powers in giving quick relief from stomach disorders, stubborn indigestion, clogged bowels and impure blood. Substantial gains in weight, where there has been loss of flesh, and better general health, follow the use of IROGEN.

If you are thin, tired, run-down subject to sick spells, you should start taking IROGEN today. It will make your digestion thorough and your appetite keen. Your food will taste delicious and will agree with you; you will GAIN WEIGHT; feel younger, stronger, more vigorous.

Seeks Prize Car

Mrs. V. J. Brown, 253 Fourteenth street, N. E., who is one of the early entries as a candidate in The Atlanta Constitution's $25,000 prize campaign. test. There are no pictures to solve or puzzles to work out. Credits win the major awards and these credits are given for securing renewal and new subscriptions to The Atlanta Constitution. The candidates with the most credits will receive the awards. The campaign positively ends May 31. This statement is made for the reason that several persons have made inquiry and wanted to know if this was a puzzle contest. This is a campaign whereby those getting the most credits receive the rewards.

The Prizes. You can win an award equal in value to $4,120. The first grand prize is a $3,120 Pierce-Arrow sedan and $1,000 in gold. The second grand prize is a $2,835 Franklin sedan and $500 in gold. There are 16 other fine new automobiles, 20 Atwater Kent radios and cash commissions to be given. All active candidates will receive a reward for their efforts.

The cash commissions to be paid guarantee that the least you can make in this campaign is 95 cents on every new yearly prepaid daily and Sunday subscription delivered by carrier, and 32 cents for every new yearly contract subscription, as all active non-prize winners will be paid a cash commission of 10 per cent on all new prepaid subscriptions and 5 per cent on all new contract subscriptions turned in by them. The amount you earn in this campaign depends entirely upon your efforts.

Elsewhere in this issue are printed the list of candidates together with the credit standings. The campaign is just beginning and new entries are being received daily. If you have not entered send in the entry blank at once and get an early start. Take advantage of the greatest extra credit offers and $500 special gold prize offer.

$100 License Proposed On Produce Peddlers

All produce peddlers bringing commodities into Atlanta or peddling them to business homes, retail stores, restaurants, etc., will be assessed $100 a year in license by the borough of Atlanta if a measure approved Wednesday by the tax committee of council is approved Monday by council.

A group of dealers appeared before the committee, declaring that peddlers are coming into the borough and representing that they sell only to wholesalers, whereas they are disposing of their goods in any way possible. This places local dealers at a disadvantage, they held, and the committee voted to abolish the $14 year tax for selling to wholesalers and place all such vendors under the same license, $100 annually.

MISTRIAL IS ORDERED FOR JIMMERSON WOMAN

Indian's Collapse in Court Ends Efforts of State for Death Verdict.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 2.—(AP)—The trial of Lila Jimerson, Indian woman, collapsed today. Tuberculosis which had broken the health of the woman accused of complicity in the slaying of Clothilde Marchand brought an end to the attempt of the state to convict her of murder in the first degree. Judge P. Bert Thompson informed that the prisoner could not be removed from a hospital at this time, ordered the jury dismissed and declared a mistrial.

This unexpected turn of affairs left both state and defense at a loss as to what the next move will be. It is expected that the state will proceed with the trial of Nancy Bowen, aged Cayuga Indian squaw, who has admitted killing Mrs. Marchand with a hammer and chloroform early in March. The case has attracted widespread attention because of the introduction into it of testimony indicating that

Lila Jimerson persuaded Mrs. Bowen to kill the artist's wife by promising her a "white witch" and was "healed" by Nancy and her people. The state endeavored to prove that the younger woman was infatuated with the artist and desiring to have his wife out of the way prevailed upon the older woman to commit the crime, bought the hammer and the chloroform and sent her to Mrs. Marchand's home in Buffalo.

On the stand as a prosecution witness Marchand admitted intimacy with the young Indian but denied that he was in love with her, insisting that his attentions to her were prompted by a desire to get her to pose for him. An old squaw witness testified to having heard Marchand say that he didn't care whether his wife lived.

G. O. P. Has Made New Deal With Ben Davis, Says Paper

Washington Post Sees Renewed Investigation of Georgia Patronage Affairs.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—(Special.)—Taking cognizance of the mudied republican political situation that has developed in Georgia, the Washington Post today gives prominent display to the following article written by a member of its staff: "Postmaster-General Brown and even Secretary Walter Newton may be called before a rejuvenated Brookhart patronage committee, it developed yesterday when Senator Brookhart made known that the committee planned to go into reports that a deal had been made with the deposed political elements in Georgia. "The committee, it was made known, is to go particularly into a report or rather what is understood to be the unchallenged fact, that Brown and Newton recently conferred here with Ben Davis, negro republican leader in Georgia, and who was the basis of the committee's recent report. Davis is said to have been offered a voice back in the party in return for administration control of a state convention to be held April 10. "As evidence of good faith on the part of the administration's representatives here, Davis' lieutenant, G. F. Flanders, is to be made United States marshal for the southern district of the state, replacing George B. McLeod, who has served 8 years. "More than usual interest attaches to the story because it involves a clash of high ideals and practical politics and because, too, a very unusual situation exists when the administration cannot control republican conventions in southern states. Yet this is exactly the situation in Georgia, and, while it is inconceivable that the administration would not be in the saddle two years hence when the national conventions are held, it is a fact that the forthcoming Georgia convention sets up the machinery that will name the delegates to the national convention, and the administration lieutenants here consider it quite important that the administration control this state meeting. This they will not do unless Davis is brought back into camp and the Brookhart committee has said quite plainly that he should not be permitted in the fold at all, much less invited back and paid a price, so to speak. "Admittedly, emergency measures are necessary to deal with the situation because the state convention is little more than two weeks off. Aside from the fact that Mr. Brown's face must be saved in his handling of the situation, there is the point that a republican convention in Georgia passing a resolution against the administration at this time would certainly not make a good party picture. The democrats would be bound to say that if the administration cannot control a Georgia convention what can it hope to do in republican states? So the matter is right important. "Mr. Brown and Mr. Newton have had a most difficult time, however, in applying Mr. Davis' ideas to such practical political situations as this one. "With Davis deposed as a national committeeman at Kansas City and presumably blasted out of the picture by the Brookhart committee, the postmaster general recognized one Josiah

T. Rose as the party leader to be reckoned with. He was recognized as the patronage dispenser and ordinarily one would have thought that that was the end of Davis. Rose, with the patronage power, should have no trouble in building up a new party. "Rose, incidentally, was a former Davis backer and the Georgia democrats who are, of course, hard to please, observed at the time of his recognition that it was a roundabout recognition of Davis. But that developed not to be the case. With the administration support, Rose drew away from his old associations. "Then it developed a few weeks ago that Rose had been unable to control the situation. At least Davis, without any patronage power but with a negro newspaper, was still in control. Whereupon Mr. Rose, Mr. Newton and Mr. Brown concluded that as distasteful as it might be they would have to deal with Davis. "The funniest thing about it all is even now, with all of the cards on the table and Davis gone back to Atlanta, he has made no definite promise of what he will do. Flanders, his lieutenant, has more faith in human nature. He is here at a high priced hotel waiting expectantly for his nomination as marshal to go to the senate. There is a serious doubt as to whether it would be confirmed under the circumstances, and, too, the department of justice cannot see why McLeod should be displaced. "In addition to getting the marshal's place for himself, the deal involves that Flanders' son should retain his postmastership at Swainsboro. "Brookhart says there is no questioning the right of his committee to carry on, although it has considered its work done. He is not on the senate postoffice committee any more, but he points out that the patronage committee, originally a subcommittee of the postoffice committee, was made a body of its own when he was transferred to another committee. Senator McKellar of Tennessee, agrees with Brookhart that the matter should be gone into and the two of them are two-thirds of the committee."

RAIN FAILS TO HAMPER CENSUS ENUMERATORS

250 Workers Start Big Task Here Early Wednesday Morning.

Despite April showers, which fell intermittently throughout the day, the 1930 census was started on schedule time here Wednesday morning as 250 enumerators began making their rounds of residences, office buildings, hotels and habitations of all descriptions for the purpose of obtaining a mass of information regarding the inhabitants. "Today their work will be checked at the office of Dr. Elizabeth Bronch in the postoffice building in order that any mistakes may be corrected and any additional orders from the census bureau in Washington given out. "Not even the city jail, the Fulton tower and the Atlanta penitentiary will be overlooked. It is understood, and the prisoners contained therein will be enumerated along with other residents of the city. "It is estimated that some two weeks will be necessary to complete the count in Atlanta proper and it is not definitely known at this time just how long a time will be required for the first returns to be made public. All the tabulations of the enumerators must be retabulated and checked at the office of Dr. Bronch in Washington. It is hoped, however, that the entire state will be available within six weeks after the conclusion of the census. "In the meantime, Dr. Bronch requests her request for full co-operation with the enumerators on the part of the public in order that full and complete records may be obtained."

HARRIS WILL PRESS IMMIGRATION BILL

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS. WASHINGTON, April 2.—(Special.)—The senate today devoted more than two hours to the consideration of the bill by Senator W. J. Harris, of Georgia, seeking to place Mexico and Central American countries on an immigration quota basis, but the opposition of middle western forces forced the measure to go over without a final vote. "Deploping the unwillingness of opponents to allow the measure to come to a vote, Senator Harris served notice of his intention to bring the legislation up for consideration at every subsequent morning session until some definite action is taken. "Muscle Shoals legislation now has the legislative right of way, which means that the Harris bill can only be considered during the so-called morning hour of proceedings. Failure of the senate to reach a vote by the expiration of the general business hour today therefore caused the bill to be automatically replaced by the shoals measure. "Under the Harris proposal, immigration from Mexico would be restricted to approximately 2,000 annually, as compared with the present non-quota status of the country. Similar restrictions would be imposed on immigration from the other Central American countries. "Urging passage of the legislation today, Senator Harris declared that the bill was of more vital importance to cotton farmers of the southern states than any other measure now pending before congress. He told the chamber that seasonal Mexican immigration was responsible for the production of some 2,000,000 bales of cotton annually. "The restriction of Mexican immigration," he said, "would have the effect of curtailing American cotton production by approximately 2,000,000 bales, with a consequent far-reaching effect on market prices." "The opposition to the bill comes chiefly from middle western and western senators whose states benefit largely by the cheap Mexican labor coming across the borders each season."

M. Putner, of Washington, of the senate appropriations committee; Chairman George Leandorf, of Metter, and Vice Chairman W. H. Platt, of Thomasville, of the senate finance committee; Chairman J. W. WOMAN BELIEVED FOUND IN BASIL MILES' DEATH

Prominent Society Matron Said To Have Visited Diplomat Before He Expired.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—(P)—A report that a woman of high social standing in Washington had visited Basil Miles, diplomat and economist, shortly before he died on June 14, 1928, arose today in the investigation the justice department is making into the circumstances of his death. "The woman, who probably will be called for questioning, was said to have left the room shortly before Miles' wife entered it. His wife was described as having been in the room when he died. Mrs. Miles now is the wife of Colonel Henry H. Rogers, a Standard Oil millionaire. "Assistant District Attorney Neil Burkinshaw, who is directing the investigation, was considering having the body of Miles exhumed. Doubt was expressed, however, whether an examination would show anything that would aid materially in the investigation."

WITNESS DESCRIBES ALLEGED "RAKE-OFF"

convict the "political-broker" on one of the four counts, Feldman, treasurer of the Puritan Chemical Company, was on the stand most of Wednesday afternoon, and though White's counsel, H. A. Allen and former Mayor Walter A. Sims, sought to discredit his testimony in cross-examination, Solicitor-General John A. Boykin and Special Prosecutor Howard reported their case "made" by his testimony and smiled with satisfaction when Feldman left the stand shortly before the close of the afternoon session.

"White came to me with orders for disbursements at $2.50 a gallon which I paid him a commission of 50 per cent after I had gone to Mr. Price and informed him that I could save the city money if the purchasing agent would purchase direct and eliminate the commission," Mr. Feldman testified in answer to questioning by Solicitor-General Boykin.

Volume Increased.
The company's orders for city business appeared to depend on the rate of "commission" being received by White, Feldman declared in testifying when he paid White only a nominal rebate on the purchase price of the volume of business was only a small part of what it was later, when White exacted an agreement whereby he was to receive 50 per cent of the purchase price of the order.

"White came to me and told me that he had the city's business all sewed up," Mr. Feldman testified. "We had been trying to get business from the city but were not having much success and after conferring at my office I agreed to give White 50 per cent of the purchase price if he could bring the business to us. Within a week we got an order and more later. Some time later, Feldman testified, White demanded an increase in his share of the proceeds. Feldman refused, the jury was told, and the business was dropped. The Puritan company from the city fell off to such an extent that when White approached him again he decided to give the demanded commission.

"After we had agreed to give White the 50 per cent of the volume of business grew to far greater proportions than it ever had before," Feldman testified. "Most of the time he would bring the order, the disbursement to our office from the office of Mr. Price and have with it the requisition of some city department head, stating the quantity and the price the city was to pay. We immediately gave White his share."

Motor Secretary Testifies.
Mr. Alexander, LeRoux company secretary, testified that White visited the company in regard to sale of cars to the city, and that White had been paid two checks of $50 each "for his influence in selling automobiles to the city."

"Did the city buy these cars at the list price?" he was asked by Mr. Howard.
"Yes," he replied.

The witness, in response to questions by Mr. Howard, said that under a fleet buyer's contract the city would have been entitled to a discount of 15 per cent. The city would be considered in line for such a contract, he said.

"Would you have given the city a 15 per cent discount if you had been asked for a bid?" Mr. Howard asked.
"Yes," he replied.

Judge Humphries asked the witness: "Was White paid after the cars were delivered?" Alexander replied in the affirmative.

Bid to City.
Mr. Allen sought to show that the company had made a bid to the city. The witness said that he did not know if a bid had been made. He did not know if the sales manager to the city making a bid on one of the cars, he replied that he did not know about the letter having been written. Alexander also testified, under questioning by Judge Humphries, that John L. Cone, city paymaster, could have visited the showrooms and looked over the cars without his knowledge of the bid.

The witness said that he did not know who the city bought the light delivery truck from, when asked if it had been purchased from Mr. Cone. He said that he did not know any bids, but admitted that Mr. LeRoux might have entered bids without his knowledge.

Went To See Price.
The agreement with White, according to Alexander, was that White would receive $50 for each car sold to the city.

"Did you ever go to Mr. Price and tell him that you could save the city money if they bought direct from you and not through White?" Solicitor-General Boykin asked Feldman.

"Yes," the witness replied.
"When?" Mr. Boykin wanted to know.

"When White balked on what he considered too small a share of the purchase price," Feldman answered. "I went to Mr. Price and told him that I could make him a far better price than he was paying."

Through dealing with White but did not seem to seek an agreement on it, he said the orders from the department heads, which specified which type of disinfectant was desired and that because of this he really had no choice in the selection of the company to set the business because no two companies manufactured what was considered exactly the same material.

Price, the city purchasing agent, is jointly accused with White and York in the indictment which White is standing trial. The cases were severed Tuesday when called to trial before Judge Humphries and the state elected to try White, Price and his counsel, W. B. Hollingsworth, of Fayetteville, are sitting at the White defense table during the trial.

West Takes Stand.
What Special Prosecutor Howard declared to be another blow to the defense was struck Tuesday afternoon in the testimony of City Comptroller B. Graham West, who appeared as a state witness and immediately preceded Feldman to the stand.

Comptroller West was placed on the stand to show the jury that none of the funds paid out by him on any of the orders manufactured by White is alleged to have received a commission were paid without an order from Price and a requisition accompanying the voucher, which White testified, the comptroller's office made no "check" relying on the purchasing agent to look after the city's interest in that regard.

"When bills were sent to your office for payment from the department which had incurred them were they always accompanied by a voucher from the purchasing agent?" Mr. Howard said in questioning Mr. West.

"Yes," the comptroller replied.
"When one came without the approval of the purchasing agent did you pay it?" Mr. Howard asked.

"No," Mr. West said. "It was sent back for the necessary orders and approval of the purchasing agent."

Here Assistant Solicitor J. Walter LeCraw took up the questioning and handed to Mr. West a number of checks made payable to the Puritan company and the Southern Sanitary Company, an organization to which White is alleged to have turned city business for a profit similar to that he is said to have obtained from the LeRoux organization.

"All of these checks were made out by you after you had received a copy of the order from the city purchasing agent's office, a voucher from the department which had received and was to use the materials purchased?" Mr. LeCraw asked.

"Yes," the comptroller answered.
"No further check made."

"Your office made no further check on the orders?" the assistant solicitor asked.

"No," Mr. West said. "The papers accompanying the voucher were sufficient for us. We depended on the purchasing agent's office to look after its end."

You made no effort to ascertain if the prices for the material were the best obtainable by the city?" was the next question.

"No," Mr. West said. "That is the duty of the purchasing agent. It is my duty and the duty of my office to pay out such funds as are approved by other officials or by the councilman purchasing committee."

received a discount of 15 per cent on these two cars that it was supposed to have received but that discount went to Jack White?" Mr. West was asked.

"No," he replied. "I did not know it."

"Did the order for the payment of the cars come from the purchasing committee?" Mr. Howard questioned.

"Yes, all purchases of $500 or over must be approved by the purchasing committee before the controller's office pays for them," Mr. West responded.

Reliance on Price.
The state in its preceding witness, Councilman J. T. Osburn, chairman of the purchasing committee, also attempted to bring out that the city relied on Price to do the best he could in the matter of purchases wherein the price was $500 or less and also indicated through its questioning of the committee chairman that course of action being planned in offering evidence to support the two counts charging fraud in the purchase of motor cars.

Mr. Howard, questioning Councilman Osburn, asked if the committee depended on Mr. Price to make the best "bids" he could when sums less than $500 was involved. The councilman replied in the affirmative.

"Did you ever have a discussion with Mr. Price about the costs of various things he personally was purchasing for the city?" Mr. Howard asked.

"Yes," Mr. Price attends the semi-monthly meetings of the committee, and at various times has given reports on what he does to obtain the lowest prices," Mr. Osburn replied.

No Instance Recalled.
"Do you recall any specific instance in which you discussed his effort with him?" Mr. Howard asked.

"No," the witness responded.
"Was this discussion a more or less general way?" Mr. Howard questioned.

"Yes," Mr. Osburn replied. "Though I do not recall any specific instances in which we talk of the best price, I do know that he came up several times and that Mr. Price in a general way reported that he always got the best prices obtainable before making a purchase."

"Were the two motor cars purchased from the LeRoux Motor Company purchased through the committee?" Mr. Howard asked.

"Yes," Mr. Osburn said. "The purchasing agent called for bids and received those bids tabulated them and presented them to the committee. The committee approved the lowest bids, which were those of the LeRoux Company."

"Didn't you know that the city did not receive its discount of 15 per cent as it was supposed to have received?" Mr. Howard asked.

Heard of Matter.
"I did not know it then but I learned of it later," Mr. Osburn said.

"Did Councilman York have anything to do with the purchasing committee?" Mr. Howard asked.

"He has not been a member of the committee at any time to my knowledge," Mr. Osburn replied.

"Did you know that the two motor cars purchased by you and which were picked out by York and White at the LeRoux Company?" Mr. Howard asked.

"No, I did not," the councilman responded.

Salesman Visited Price.
The state witness, also called Isaac Samuels, salesman for Feldman's company, Samuels testified that he visited Price and solicited business from him in 1925, offering insecticides to the city.

"How often did you visit Price?" Mr. Howard asked.

"Every day for a while, and then sometimes three times a week," Samuels testified that he had obtained orders from the custodian of the city hall, but that after White began working on the city business the company got only orders that White brought in. "I offered a better price than White," Samuels declared.

Under questioning by Mr. Allen, Samuels testified that he did not sell the city anything personally until 1928. "But I never gave up," the witness added. He continued, under questioning, with the statement that White commenced getting business from the city "right off." The witness said that he still sees Price now and then but does not sell him anything. "I never got a chance to give him a price," he said. "I had no chance to tell Price how cheap my goods were. He would say, 'Well, I haven't got anything right now.'"

Hasn't Learned Cost.
Mr. Allen asked: "So Mr. Price has not found out until yet how cheap you would sell him?"
The witness confirmed this.

O. H. Pendley, secretary to the city police chief, took the stand, and testified that he had rejected a barrel of scrubbing powder ordered for the police department by the city purchasing agent from the Puritan company. He said that the price was $3 a barrel, and that the purchasing agent sent him a copy of the order to the Puritan Chemical Company, Pendley said.

"Two or three days after I had put in the requisition, I got a bill from the Puritan company at 13 cents a pound. I ordered the powder rejected, and they substituted another barrel of the same stuff at a cheaper price—cheaper by 4 cents a pound."

Why did you send the first barrel back?" Mr. Howard asked.

"Because the price was too high," Pendley replied. He added that the price of 13 cents a pound was fixed in the order, and declared, in reply to a question, that the city purchasing agent fixes the prices for the police department.

Company Changed Price.
Mr. Allen asked the witness "who made the change in price?"
"That was made by the Puritan Company," the secretary said. "The powder in the two barrels looked alike, and the packages looked alike."

"Did you analyze the ingredients?"
"No, sir. The labels were the same, however. There was something on both of them like 'wonder powder' or something like that."

"After you returned the barrel of scrubbing powder, did you talk to Jack White?" asked Mr. Howard.

"Yes," White called me on the telephone three or four hours after I had talked to the Puritan. He asked me what was the trouble with the order. I told him the price was too high, and that I had obtained a satisfactory powder at lower prices before—from seven to nine cents a pound," Pendley said.

White said that this was a very superior grade of powder, and that Grady hospital was using it with satisfactory results. He said that Mr. Feldman was somewhat disturbed because the barrel was rejected, and feared he would lose the police department business. White said he hoped the incident would be forgotten as the company was within its rights in furnishing the powder at the price at which it was ordered. I told him that we could do without that luxury."

Paid 7 and 8 Cents.
"What did you pay for powder before this?" he was asked.

"We paid seven and eight cents a pound for Old Buck. But you can't get that now because the company is out of business."

Mr. Allen asked the witness if Price, as a usual thing, followed him, recording the prices of the various things he purchased. The witness replied in the affirmative, but added that Price was expected to use his own judgment.

To questions by Mr. Howard, Mr. Pendley said that he had made out requisitions for goods for which White was broker, and had sent the requisitions to the city hall by White. "At that time I did not know that we just sent in requisitions through the usual channels."

"Did anyone else get business from the police department?" he was asked.

"The business was pretty well distributed. We bought some goods from the White Chemical Company," the witness said.

"Did White didn't have a monopoly on your business?" Mr. Allen inquired.

"No." At this point, Mr. Howard offered in evidence invoices in connection with Mr. Pendley's testimony. With reference to the invoice concerning the purchase of scrubbing powder, the defense said that it had no objection to offer.

"We want it in," Mr. Allen said. "You are mighty accommodating."

"Yes, and we'll show you later just why we are so accommodating," the defense attorney declared.

Delivered Disinfectant.
John Armstrong, negro drayman for the Ni-Late Company, testified that he delivered some of the Grant park zoo, and that there was not room enough in the place where the material was stored ordinarily, so that he had to store it on the ground back of the building.

S. Selig, president of the Selig Company, testified that White worked for him under a commission contract during the year 1925. The witness said that his firm "did no quantity of business with the city after the contract terminated."

Mr. Howard questioned the witness at length concerning invoices for fly disinfectant. The witness said that he did not handle the product listed in the invoices, and that he had not made the bids received by the city.

Mr. Allen developed that the Selig Company had sold to the city Seelye-Fly-Gon at $2.50 a gallon in 1927, and that the price sometimes went as high as $3 a gallon or as low as $2 a gallon, depending on the quantity bought.

"Were there men in your office besides you qualified to make bids to the city?" Mr. Allen asked.

"Yes," the witness replied.
"Did White ask you for an increase in commissions?" Mr. Howard asked.

"Yes, but I did not grant it," was the reply.

"White sold to customers other than the city, didn't he?" Mr. Allen questioned the witness.

"Yes," the witness said. "With the aid of documents, Mr. Allen developed that the company did $8,000 of business with the city in 1927, $6,000 in 1928, and $2,500 in 1929, seeming to show that the company's business with the city dropped off after White began working on commissions."

Holland Testifies.
Another important witness of the afternoon session was L. L. Holland, city salesman for the Standard Oil Company, who testified that City Purchasing Agent Price had refused offers of his company for the sale of disinfectants similar to those bought through White, despite the fact that the Standard's product was nationally known, and that the company had made a price much lower than the price offered by White.

Holland, on direct examination by Mr. Howard, declared that he had approached Price and offered to sell him a nationally known disinfectant at $1.06 a gallon in drum lots but that the purchasing agent told him that the material was ordered through the various departments and that he was not the man who actually decided on his purchase.

The documentary evidence submitted during the day shows that the city paid $2.50 a gallon for disinfectant similar to that which the Standard company offered to sell for $1.06 and which other companies were selling over Atlanta as low as $1 a gallon.

Got a Few Orders.
"Did you get any orders from Mr. Price?" Mr. Howard asked.

"Yes," the witness answered. "We got a few."

"You sell other products to the city?" Mr. Howard questioned. "In fact the Standard does a big business with the municipal government in the sales of other materials, does it not?"

"Yes, we do," the witness said. In cross-examining the witness Mr. Allen brought out that Mr. Price had referred the salesmen to the various department heads he said controlled the purchase of the products he was selling and suggested that he see them in an effort to sell his wares.

"Did Mr. Price suggest that you see the department heads who were requisitioning him for the stuff you were selling?" Mr. Allen asked.

"Yes," he did," the witness responded.

Saw Department Heads.
"Did you see them?" the defense lawyer asked.

"Yes, I saw some of them," Mr. Holland replied.

"Did you get any orders?" Mr. Allen asked.

"Yes, a few from Grady hospital," the witness declared.

"Did the orders go through the purchasing agent's office all right?" Mr. Allen wanted to know.

"Yes," the witness said. In opening his case at the morning session the state, after Mr. Howard had outlined the charges and what he hoped to prove and attorneys Sims and Allen answered for the defense.

Mr. Sloan, president of the Fulton county, was considered by the state its most important witness during the morning session. His company handles "Fly-Gon," one of the several insecticides alleged to have been used by White in the purchase of the city hall bug extermination.

Levy testified that he had been getting $1.10 a gallon for the material during White in March, 1928, when the defendant approached him regarding a deal for the purchase of the "Fly-Gon."

"White asked for a contract calling upon the Southern company to give him whatever it received over its regular price," Levy testified. "The company agreed to do so, and White dictated the contract."

The Southern company then billed the city for $2.50 a gallon for the insecticide, though at the same time the purchasing agent of Fulton county was getting the same material for as low as $1.10 a gallon.

"It was a close price which we gave the county and fluctuated somewhat," Levy said. "Sometimes it would go up to $1.10 a gallon, and once went as high as $1.30 a gallon."

Received Many Orders.
Levy said that after he had entered into the contract with White he received a large number of orders from the city and that the business of the city and the Southern company was very profitable.

In answer to a question of Special Prosecutor Howard Levy declared that he was not a member of the purchasing committee of White and Councilman York received a rebate on all the sales.

County Declines To Accept Offer Of $500,000 Suit

Action of William G. McRae, attorney, in filing a suit against the Atlanta Title & Trust Company in the name of Fulton county to recover money alleged to be due for examination of records in the office of the clerk of superior court Wednesday failed to receive ratification by the county commission.

Mr. McRae presented to the commission a letter outlining his action, and asked for approval of the suit. The commission, however, declined to adopt the suit, and said that the county would handle the matter in its own way. County Attorney Charles B. Shelton told the commission that he had a decision of the state supreme court on his desk in regard to the matter and that he had been conferring with a committee from the Lawyers' Club in that connection before the suit was filed.

The McRae suit seeks to recover some $500,000 alleged to be due for examination-of-record fees. The suit was filed in the name of his wife as a taxpayer and in the name of Fulton county.

The commission directed the payment of $30,000 into the treasury of the state of Atlanta as the county's share of the construction of a new south span for the Forsyth street viaduct. The appropriation was approved by the commission a month ago. The viaduct is being rebuilt to conform to the new Union depot.

The request of a committee for an appropriation of $10,000 with which 50 delegates are expected to participate in an afternoon of golf at one of the city links to be designated during the meeting.

Mr. Sloan, president of the Cotton-Textile institute, while not on the program as a regular speaker, is expected to outline his observations in the industry as recently stated by the Rev. Dr. L. R. Christie, pastor of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church.

In addition to addresses by Dr. Brittain and Justice Gilbert, other speakers on Friday's program include Dr. Jeff Davis, of Toccoa, president of the association in 1928-29; Clifford J. Swift, of Columbus, president; D. W. Anderson, of New Holland, treasurer; T. M. Forbes, of Atlanta, secretary; and W. C. Chears, of Atlanta, traffic manager.

During luncheon, which will be served at 1 o'clock in honor of past presidents and charter members of the association, which is celebrating its thirtieth anniversary, reports of the resolutions and nominations committees will be read, followed immediately by election of officers for the ensuing year. The luncheon and elections will mark the end of the convention, although the approximately 150 delegates are expected to participate in an afternoon of golf at one of the city links to be designated during the meeting.

Cop's Fondness for Eggs Costs Him Place on Force

POLICEMAN A. M. DAVIS CONVICTED OF THEFT OF HALF DOZEN EGGS—then eggs, half a dozen of them—Wednesday night cut short the police career of A. M. Davis, when he was summarily fired from the Atlanta department by order of the police committee.

Davis was charged with stealing the six eggs from a bakery on the morning of March 12. Raymond Davis, owner of the little shop at 1160 Euclid avenue, declared that while he did not mind furnishing a reasonable quantity, the policeman's appetite in that respect was almost insatiable.

He made it a habit, and I finally marked all I had," the shop owner told the police committee. "He took them to a restaurant around the corner and had them cooked every morning for his breakfast."

On the night of March 11 I marked my eggs, and told the cafe owner to substitute others for the ones which the policeman brought in and to save the ones he had marked for himself. He did, and through this co-operation I have four marked ones here which he carried to be cooked for his breakfast."

The policeman contended that he laid 25 cents on the register of the bakery at the time he took the eggs, telling a negro boy the money was to pay for the eggs.

LEADERS OF TEXTILE MEN MEET TONIGHT

With George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton-Textile institute, present, the thirtieth annual convention of the Georgia Cotton Manufacturers Association, featured by addresses by Justice S. P. Price, of the Georgia supreme court; Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of the Georgia School of Technology, and other prominent officials will convene at 8 o'clock tonight at the Baltimore hotel for a two-day session.

Tonight's meeting, which will be an executive conference for the discussion of taxation, legislation, self-insurance and other problems will be devoted strictly to those subjects. The real business session of the convention will begin at 10 o'clock Friday morning in the Pompeian room of the Baltimore hotel.

In addition to addresses by Dr. Brittain and Justice Gilbert, other speakers on Friday's program include Dr. Jeff Davis, of Toccoa, president of the association in 1928-29; Clifford J. Swift, of Columbus, president; D. W. Anderson, of New Holland, treasurer; T. M. Forbes, of Atlanta, secretary; and W. C. Chears, of Atlanta, traffic manager.

HAPPIEST WOMAN
IN GEORGIA NOW,
SAYS MRS. GARVIN

Complications That Kept Her Miserable for Years Yield To Powers of New Sargon.

Millions of men and women in the very prime of life, who should be literally overflowing with health and the sheer joy of living, find themselves dragging through life half-sick and constantly complaining. To such men and women, the new Sargon compound points the way to blessed and lasting relief. As an instance of the marvelous powers of this remarkable medicine, take the case of Mrs. B. L. Garvin, of 629 State St., N. W., Atlanta, whose health had broken down at an age when she should have been brimful of energy and vitality. Read her straightforward statement:

"Sargon overcame troubles that had made my life almost wretched for years. It not only restored my health but I've gained weight and strength and energy, and even my outlook on life has been changed through this wonderful medicine!"

"Everything seemed to go wrong with me and my nerves were almost wrecked. I was so restless and excitable, even when I felt drowsy and sleepy and went to bed thinking I'd surely get a good rest it would be almost impossible for me to relax, and if I should fall to sleep the slightest noise would awaken me and I'd roll and toss the rest of the night. I had a weak, weary feeling all the time, the least exertion would exhaust me and my housework was simply a drag—sometimes I'd feel over in a 'dead' faint. My liver was so inactive I was always bothered with constipation and I was subject to terrific sick headaches and dizzy spells. My appetite was very poor and I had to force the little I did eat, only to suffer the penalty of indigestion. I'd wake up in the night with such smothering spells I'd have to jump from my bed and run to an open window for fresh air, and I felt like I was going to die."

"I think I'm the happiest woman in Georgia since I found Sargon! I've already gained eight pounds and I'm actually feel stronger and more energetic than I have in ten years! My nerves are wonderfully strengthened and I sleep just grand and get up feeling full of life. I haven't used a single effort at all; and I haven't had any of my old fainting spells since I started the treatment. My appetite has picked up and I eat anything I like, without a sign of indigestion."

"Sargon Pills stimulated my liver and entirely overcame my constipation, and I'm at last free of sick headaches and dizzy attacks. I've already told any number of my friends about Sargon and I'll gladly talk to anyone who is further interested in what this wonderful medicine does."

The Sargon Man is at Jacobs' Main Store, 48 North Broad St., Grant Bldg., where he is meeting the public and explaining the merits of this celebrated new scientific product. Sargon may be obtained at all Jacobs' Drug Stores throughout Atlanta. (adv.)

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt found the remedy called his prescription HEM-ROID. He tried it in 1,000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 96 per cent and then decided it should be sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Jacobs' Drug Stores today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and will do the same for you, or costs you nothing. (adv.)

Sick Bladder
and Kidneys are Dangerous

Don't neglect burning passages, painful elimination, harmful irritation and night rising. Correct such ailments at once before they become serious. Doctors for half a century have prescribed Santal Midy for quick relief. Get it at your druggist.

DRYS FINISH ARDENT PROHIBITION DEFENSE

Southern Methodist Would Brand Dry Law Opponents as "Rebels."

BY CECIL B. DICKSON.
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—(AP)—Dry forces ended their case in the prohibition hearings before the house judiciary committee today with statements by six leaders describing a decade under the eighteenth amendment as having improved economic and social conditions throughout the country.

After presenting but one witness the drys obtained permission of the committee to offer written statements from their leaders without subjecting them to cross-examination, abruptly ending the session and the hearings. The wets, however, are to be given opportunity for limited rebuttal two weeks from today.

Since February 12 the committee has heard first from the wets and then from the drys opposing opinions on the measures to repeal the eighteenth amendment, which have been before that group for years. Both sides presented witnesses from many walks of life, ranging from farmers on the western plains to smart society women in eastern cities; from industrialists, financiers, social workers, educators, scientists, former government officials and members of congress.

No Right to Drink.

At the outset today J. Watson Allen of Boston, former attorney-general of Massachusetts, the only witness to take the stand, contended that under the constitution there was no inherent individual right to drink or sell liquor. He cited many constitutional interpretations by the supreme court and other judicial bodies supporting his position.

Solution of the drink problem, he said, rested in strict enforcement by the several states.

The statements which were introduced into the record unread, came from F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League; Deets Pickett, secretary of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals; Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism; the Rev. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, superintendent of the National Temperance Bureau; the Rev. William Sheafe Chase, superintendent of the International Reform Federation, and Eugene L. Crawford, general secretary of the board of temperance and social service of the Methodist Episcopal church, south. All of them were present ready to take the stand if wanted, except Dr. Cherrington.

Bone Dry Stands.

Each statement reasserted opposition of the organizations represented to any repeal or modification of the dry laws and declared that absolute prohibition was the only way in which to defeat the evils they attributed to liquor.

McBride said that "not surrender, but education, observance and enforcement is the solution of the liquor problem—the only answer to the alcoholic liquor question."

Placing the views of the Methodist board of temperance before the committee, Pickett asserted that "the country has so thoroughly adapted itself to conditions existing under prohibition. All their suggestions, he continued, had been tried and had proved to be failures."

Despite all handicaps and the "venality and corruption of officials which its enemies and prominent political leaders of both major parties in the larger cities, particularly New York, Philadelphia and Chicago, Crawford said his organization took the view that "the issue is no longer the enforcement of the prohibition law."

The issue, he said, is the maintenance of the constitutional government, and added that "rebels against constitutional government must be treated as rebels and made to understand that even if they do not like the prohibition laws they cannot defy the government of the United States."

Insurance Companies
Declare War on Fraud

A number of insurance companies writing industrial, health and accident insurance have organized in an effort to combat the filling of fraudulent claims, it was announced Wednesday by L. A. Irons, deputy state insurance commissioner.

Fifteen years ago, Mr. Irons said, sick and accident claims represented 30 to 35 per cent of the total of industrial policies issued, while the number now has increased to 55 to 65 per cent. Many of the claims are found to be fraudulent, he said.

Sixteen companies were represented in the agreement, he said. The state's interest in their organization is only advisory.

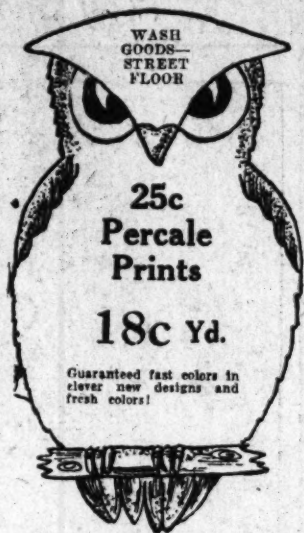

Capitol Renovation
Work Put Under Way

Active work on the renovation of the state capitol building began Wednesday, when workmen started tearing away one of the two stairs leading to the basement. The renovation, which will cost approximately $200,000, is under the charge of the A. K. Adams company, of Atlanta.

Repairs and changes will include the refinishing of the entire interior, the construction of nine new offices in the basement, and the installation of two new elevators.

City Bond Commission
Meets This Afternoon

The Atlanta bond commission will meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the new Atlanta city hall to pass on several matters of importance which various council committees have approved and sent to it for sanction. It was announced Wednesday by Mrs. Etta Rhamstine, secretary.

New Alignments Predicted For Governorship Contest

Overlapping Support of Probable Entries in Race Gives Promise of Race of Unusual Warmth.

BY FRANCIS W. CLARKE.

A gubernatorial race of unusual warmth, conducted along lines radically different from those which have marked former contests for the governorship, is in the offing for Georgia this summer, if the political wisecracks of the state are not badly mistaken.

Following the speech in Atlanta Tuesday night of Ed Rivers, who is already actively in the race, and the visit to the capitol on the same day of G. Ed Maddox, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, who has been persistently rumored as a certain candidate, political circles in Atlanta were busily buzzing with special reference to the prospects for the forthcoming contest for the place of chief executive of the state.

While the probability of course, is that all of the seven or eight prominent Georgians who are now being mentioned, will not finally enter, it is not at all improbable that the race will set a record in the number of candidates of state wide strength who will stick to the finish. In addition the large number of candidates and their over-lapping support undoubtedly would cause break-ups in former factions which would result in altogether new alignments.

Perry to Announce.
Former State Senator Rivers is now making an active canvass, while James A. Perry, chairman of the public service commission, has indicated his definite intention of making formal announcement at a later date.

George H. Carwell, secretary of state, Mr. Maddox, John N. Holder, former head of the state highway department, and Richard B. Russell, speaker of the house of representatives, are looked upon as almost certain entries, with the possibility of announcements from Judge R. C. Bell.

Don't Go to Extremes To End Constipation

When bad breath, or a coated tongue, biliousness or headaches warn of constipation, don't take violent purgatives. There's no use when a candy Cascaret will stop the trouble in a jiffy; will cleanse your system pleasantly, and completely.

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Local people, many of whom you know, are highly endorsing Tanlac. For example, Mrs. E. L. White says: "For years I suffered from indigestion. I got no relief from anything until I took Tanlac. After my fourth bottle, I feel like a new person and have a fine appetite."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation, or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you. Accept no substitute.—(adv.)

KEY BELIEVED FOUND TO ROTHSTEIN MURDER

Letters Discovered in Old Suit Case May Clear Mystery of Death.

MIAMI, Fla., April 2.—(UN)—A sheaf of letters found stuffed in the lining of a second-hand suitcase here led federal authorities today to believe they might have stumbled onto key evidence in the unsolved murder of Arnold Rothstein, late New York gambler.

Apparently written by a betrayed woman member of the underworld, the man whose identity has thus far been closely guarded, the letters were said on high authority to contain a threat of exposure against the man unless he returned a diamond ring to the writer.

"You know what I mean: the facts about the Rothstein murder," one of the letters was said to have read.

They were seized by special federal narcotic agents here with the arrest of Hughie Inman, 33-year-old alleged Toledo (Ohio) narcotic addict, and a woman who said her name was Miss Ruth Palmer. Inman was held on a narcotic possession charge, Miss Palmer as a material witness.

Both denied any knowledge of the origin of the letters, saying the suitcase was purchased in a second-hand store in New York. They were arrested by Detective Sergeant Frank Mitchell on information of Toledo authorities. The special federal agents then appeared on the scene and took the letters.

George Coyle, federal narcotic agent for the Miami area, told the United News the special agents had taken the Rothstein letters to R. A. Frazier, federal narcotic agent in charge of the Florida district, at Jacksonville. Their contents were not made public here.

Arnold Rothstein, widely known Broadway frequent gambler, of New York, was slain during a high stakes card game in a Gotham hotel more than a year ago. No successful solution of the case ever has been worked out, although he said he merely collected the garbage and saw nothing suspicious.

There were many signs of a struggle, including bruises on the woman's face and neck and on her wrist, from where her watch had been torn. Her slippers were lying in far corners of the room, as if they had been kicked off vigorously.

Close to the woman's head, however, as the body lay on the floor, was a statuette, unbroken and still standing. And the pins in her hair were not disarranged.

Police were unable to account for the black marks on the inside of her hands, unless they were made while she struggled for the ribbon with which she was strangled. The ribbon was of the type women use to bind their hair, about two and a half inches wide.

Mrs. Helms, who was 26, was a former student at the University of Illinois while her husband graduated from the University of Nebraska. He was unable to shed much light on the slaying but he said that yesterday, for the first time since they were married a year and a half ago, she failed to telephone him.

Medfly 'Cleanup' Asked By Florida Governor

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 2.—(AP)—Governor Doyle E. Carlton has called upon citizens of Florida to lend their best co-operation to what has been set aside as "cleanup day" for the Mediterranean fruit fly.

The governor named April 17 as this day.

Declaring that the state now is in the most crucial period of its fight against the fly, the chief executive elaborated upon his previous statement regarding the appropriation of $110,000 by the state which he said was merely to bridge the gap between now and the time when the federal government makes a sufficient appropriation to carry on the fight.

He emphasized that the appropriation was merely an emergency measure to continue in force the present quarantine regulations but declared the state was financially unable to "carry on very long."

Detroit Paid 'Real Money' To Look Dumb

DETROIT, April 2.—(AP)—Otto Fichtl is paid a salary by the city of Detroit to "look dumb."

For years he has gone about the city armed with a worker's badge, an unsophisticated manner and a slight accent. He has been valuable to the city health department because quacks and fakers mistake him for "fish."

Fichtl has been "capped" by psychoanalysts, massaged, advised to leave this climate, "charmed" given a limited time to live unless he takes "our treatments." He has survived, naive as ever.

He went into the office of Franco Kejna yesterday. Kejna displayed a demonic array of forceps, tweezers, pinchers, drills, pliers and picks and allowed he was a dentist. He poked at Fichtl's teeth and pronounced it a bad case which could be cured for $168.

Fichtl submitted to $5 worth and afterward said Kejna's work was painless, but Kejna was taken to jail on a charge of practicing dentistry without a license.

PULLED OUT OF PIPE, MAN MUST EXPLAIN

MILWAUKEE, April 2.—(AP)—Joseph Wurlein, 22, got into a tight place this morning, so tight that police who found him had to call the fire department to aid them before they could take him to the police station.

Patrolmen Sidney Fox and John Schulteis heard cries for help. In the early morning darkness they traced the calls to a ventilator pipe atop a clothing store building. The pipe, wide at the roof opening, narrowed before it entered the store.

In the narrow part the officers found Wurlein, who told them he first tried to get into the building through the pipe and for an hour before he was discovered had been trying to get out.

Combined efforts of the policemen and the victim were to no avail and as a last resort the fire department was called and Wurlein was fished out, minus his shoes, socks, coat and cap.

Wurlein started to express his gratitude, but the officers advised him to save his breath for an explanation of his presence in the pipe.

COSGRAVE RE-ELECTED AS IRISH PRESIDENT

Dail Eireann Votes for Former Leader, Defeating De Valera.

DUBLIN, Ireland, April 2.—(UN)—William T. Cosgrave was re-elected by the dail eireann late tonight to serve as president of the Irish Free State executive council. He thus maintained his ascendancy over Eamonn de Valera, campaigner for an "Irish republic."

Cosgrave, who had been defeated by a narrow margin last Thursday night on an old age pensions bill, was chosen for his old post by the dail after De Valera and the laborite leader, T. J. O'Connell, had been thrust aside in turn.

The successive votes were: For De Valera—34 for; 33 opposed. For O'Connell—13 for; 78 opposed. For Cosgrave—30 for; 65 opposed.

De Valera, at present in Chicago, was nominated by Sean O'Kelly, acting leader of the fianna fail party. O'Connell immediately objected to the candidacy, while the crowded galleries hung on every word.

Desmond Fitzgerald, minister of defense in Cosgrave's defeated cabinet, joined the assault, saying that De Valera had promoted a law suit in the United States based on a denial of the dail's authority.

"If he is elected, what law will prevail?" Fitzgerald asked. "It would be De Valera's duty to hand over powers of government, entrusted to him by the dail, to gunmen outside."

O'Kelly replied to both objectors. "The fianna fail policy," as announced in America and at home, is the attainment of an Irish republic without shedding anyone's blood," he said. "If De Valera is elected we will use the machinery of the dail to attain a republic."

The laborites and independents voted solidly with Cosgrave's party, the Fianna Fail, to reject De Valera's nomination.

Deputy Speaker Daniel Morrissey then nominated O'Connell, but the De Valera party abstained from voting and the Cosgrave faction easily defeated him. Joseph Morgan nominated Cosgrave at this juncture.

Ponce de Leon Comes Again To St. Augustine

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., April 2.—(AP)—The city of St. Augustine today turned the pages of history back 417 years and with Florida's youngest first executive, Doyle E. Carlton, and some 2,500 other spectators packing the stadium on ancient Fort San Marco, unfolded the magnificent pageantry of Don Juan Ponce de Leon's discovery on Easter Sunday, April 3, 1513.

Once again the little carnival Dolores sailed into the azure waters of the Matanzas bearing the venerable Spanish don who had left his Porto Rican domain in search of the famed Fountain of Youth, reputed to have rejuvenating powers.

The pageantry depicted the Knight of Leon landing in St. Augustine, the claiming of the newly discovered territory in the name of King Ferdinand of Spain and the blessing of the land by the priests with the identical prayers used on that occasion centuries ago.

The theme upon which this pageant is based is taken from archives from the priests, without whom no Spanish conquistadores sailed and who, as the only historians of the day, set down minutely the incidents of that day 417 years past.

Tomorrow the terreplein of Fort San Marco will be the scene of the enactment of the advent of Don Pedro Menendez De Aviles, who with 24 ships and thousands of colonists landed on what is now the site of St. Augustine, made peace with the Indians and started the settlement which has been St. Augustine since 1565.

The Ponce de Leon celebration is a civic enterprise produced each year by the St. Augustine Junior Chamber of Commerce with the co-operation of virtually the entire city. It memorializes the historic incidents incident to the discovery of Florida, the founding of the city of St. Augustine and the historical transitions through which St. Augustine struggled under the standards of four nations and the United States.

Texas Natural.
CHICAGO, April 2.—(AP)—The Chicago region is to draw upon the huge natural gas reservoir of the Texas Panhandle for its gas supply.

Preliminary agreements for tapping the Texas gas basin with a 950-mile pipe line whose northern terminus will be the Insub utilities stations of Illinois and Indiana were announced today by Insub, Son & Co., Inc.

1 Killed, 1 Dying In Saloon Shooting

CLEVELAND, April 2.—(AP)—John Vitale, 35, was killed in a gun fight with two youths who, according to police, attempted "to shake down" an alleged speakeasy early today.

One of the youths, Howard Abbott, 20, was shot twice in the chest and cannot live, hospital authorities said. Abbott, police said, confessed that he and Frank Peskar, 21, shot Vitale for interfering with them when they entered the alleged speakeasy of Mike Clacico and ordered him to face the wall.

Vitale emerged from the kitchen firing, Clacico told police, and dropped Peskar with a bullet wound in the back. Abbott emptied his gun at Vitale, who fell fatally wounded. The two gunmen then staggered out into the street and walked three blocks before they collapsed and were picked up by a motorist.

At a hospital Abbott discovered he was in the next bed to Peter Bukovec, 50, and announced that he had shot and robbed Bukovec last-Sunday night. Bukovec identified Abbott.

Abbott, police said, told them he had been preying on speakeasies since last fall because he could not find work and his father spent all his income for liquor. It was Peskar's first trip with him, Abbott said.

Woman's Birth Date Proves Less Personal Than Age in Census

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 2.—(P)—Add this item to the list of startling revelations from the nation. A woman's birth date is a much less personal matter than her age.

It's up to the census analysts to find out why and what may be deduced from it. All the Savannah district office is after is the facts. Hardly had Elton Sterritt, secretary to Frank R. Durden, census supervisor here, opened the office this morning when he was called to the telephone by an irate feminine voice. The voice announced that an inquisitive person was even then in the speaker's home propounding a catechism, and she proposed to tell no such person details as how old she was, and what could Mr. Sterritt suggest that would make the census taker and at the same time keep her personal affairs private?

Sterritt resorted to diplomatic subterfuge and they compromised, to the voice's entire satisfaction, on the revelation of her birth date.

HEARING OF $25,000 RAILWAY SUIT OPENS

MACON, Ga., April 2.—(P)—Hearing of an action brought by J. Mr. Dumas asks $25,000.

Mr. Dumas was on a peach truck, hunting through a negro settlement for laborers in his peach orchard when he drove onto a little used crossing in front of a train. He was badly hurt and a negro who was in the truck was killed.

The two sons, Valentine E. Macy, Jr., New York, and J. Noel Macy, of Ossining, N. Y., and the daughter, Mrs. Edith M. Lewis, of Weston, Mass., receive equal shares in the residuary estate.

A cousin, Arthur Holdbrook, of Ossining, was left $100,000, an additional $100,000 in trust and a farm in Ruffin, N. C.

Mr. Macy made several institutional bequests: Teachers' College, New York, $50,000.

Henry Street Settlement and the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, $100,000 each.

Berry School, Rome, Ga., $50,000. Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute, Hampton, Va., $25,000.

VISITED MT. BERRY FIVE YEARS AGO.

MT. BERRY, Ga., April 2.—Gift of $50,000 to Berry schools endowment fund by Everit Macy at his death recently marked the last donation by one of the oldest friends of the schools who for years had generously helped Miss Martha Berry to carry on her work. Mr. Macy visited the institution here last about five years ago, showing keen interest in the vocational work undertaken for mountain boys and girls of the southland. Until his health failed he had been a member of the board of trustees, serving from the early incorporation of the schools. When he had to go to Arizona, seeking a cure to his illness, he resigned his place on the board and his son, E. Valentine Macy, Jr., succeeded him. Miss Berry visited the Macys at their home on the Hudson above New York city for several days almost yearly during her trips north.

It is said that warrant will be sworn out against Mr. Palmer charged with assault with intent to murder.

TAX CASE HEARING BEGUN AT MACON

MACON, Ga., April 2.—(P)—Hearing of an action brought in February by 22 Bibb county lumber dealers in an attack on the constitutionality of the general tax act of 1927, as amended in 1929, was begun in Bibb superior court before Judge H. A. Mathews this week.

The lumber dealers are attacking that part of the act which imposes a special occupation tax on lumber dealers. In addition to the attack on its constitutionality the petition declared that part of the act is null and void because it is "vague, uncertain and indefinite."

The original action involved the sale of a large tract of land in Tift county. Mrs. Hamlin charged that the property was misrepurchased to her. The verdict, however, was in Mrs. Johns' favor.

VIRGINIA MAN SLAIN IN SCREVEN COUNTY

J. T. Barley Shot to Death After Alleged Attack on Georgian.

SYLVANIA, Ga., April 2.—(P)—J. T. Barley, said to be of South Boston, Va., was killed this morning about 5 o'clock at the home of R. L. Farmer who lives four miles below Newton in this county, a coroner's jury subsequently finding that his death was justifiable homicide on the part of Farmer.

A man named Fennel, son-in-law of Farmer, testified at the hearing that Barley had knocked at both front and back door of the house and that Fennel had met Barley at his room door. He had gotten in the house through the kitchen and dining room and told Fennel some one had taken his car, that he was shot, and wanted a doctor. Fennel said he had started to dress when Barley went into an adjoining room and while there knocked a clock off the mantel. This awakened Farmer, who got up.

Farmer testified that he met Barley at his room door and Barley began cutting at him with a knife he had picked up in the kitchen. Farmer held him, he said, and backed into his room where he secured a pistol hanging on a nail over the mantel piece. He admitted firing three times. Two of the bullets took effect, one through the neck under the chin, and the other through the center of the chest. Farmer had several knife cuts about the face, head and shoulder. Both Fennel and Farmer denied any previous acquaintance with the man.

Sheriff J. J. Griffin is still working through the clues in connection with the killing. No one in the vicinity had ever heard of or seen Barley before, Sheriff Griffin said, and his appearance at the farmhouse early today is still unexplained.

In his pocket were papers indicating that he held a responsible position with the American Tobacco company. There was also an insurance policy found covering an automobile recently purchased, and which car was found a quarter of a mile from the Farmer home in private road. Another receipt showed that he had been in Statesboro for four days at a hotel there.

Would you like to try this doctor's laxative free of charge?

Every family has occasional need of a laxative, but it should be a family laxative. One that can't form a habit, but can be taken as often as needed. When the breath is bad or tongue is coated. Or appetite fails. Only a doctor knows the right ingredients. Dr. Caldwell discovered the right ingredients. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin combines harmless herbs and pure senna. It starts muscular action and soon corrects constipation. Gently, but surely, it relieves a bilious or sluggish condition. It is mild. Delicious. Effective. All druggists keep this famous prescription ready, in big bottles. Or write Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, Monticello, Ill., for a free trial bottle postpaid.

INTEREST INCREASES DAILY

In Atlanta Constitution's $25,000 Prize Race

Many New Candidates Starting Campaign For Rich Rewards

WITH THE CREDIT RACE, which alone will decide the winners of the splendid array of beautiful awards to be given by The Atlanta Constitution, in its opening stages, every day brings new tokens of a continuously rising tide of enthusiasm over the magnificent possibilities that the record-breaking prize offer contains. New entrants are listed daily as aspirants for the EIGHTEEN automobiles, TWENTY ATWATER KENT Radios and many cash commissions. Many candidates are making an active start towards winning credit leadership by turning in their FIRST SUBSCRIPTIONS.

THE EXTRAORDINARY EXTRA CREDIT AND EXTRA $500 MERIT PRIZE OFFER detailed in the adjoining columns, is particularly conducive to immediate entry and activity in the campaign. Under its terms new subscriptions earn more credits than they ever will again during the campaign, so that effort NOW is more helpful in winning a prize than it will be later, besides an entrant stands seven chances of winning part of the $500 in GOLD. MANY PEOPLE who have been thinking over the opportunity for big profit presented by the $25,000 prize campaign offer, but who have so far deferred action, are now realizing that the right time to act has arrived. YOU can't lose in this campaign. It doesn't cost a cent to enter or to win, and credits alone count towards winning. Enter yourself with the Entry Blank below.

NOT A PUZZLE! There are no puzzles to solve, no answers to explain, no ties, and the campaign positively closes on Saturday, May 31, 1930. EVERY CANDIDATE WINS, because The Constitution pays ten per cent cash commission on all NEW subscription money (95 cents on every NEW yearly cash-in-advance subscription by carrier) and five per cent cash commission on all NEW CONTRACT (52 cents on every NEW yearly contract subscriptions) to all ACTIVE NON-PRIZE WINNERS.

Credits Alone Win Prizes--You Can Easily Gain Winning Leadership

Here they are: the names of those already entered in The Atlanta Constitution's $25,000 prize campaign. Send in your entry if you have not already done so and be the representative candidate in your community. Remember, all those now entered will not become active and your opportunity to win is equal to those already entered. The list today includes only nominations received not later than noon Wednesday and only includes the Entry Blank and first subscription credits. The next list of candidates will be published Sunday.

Two Ways to Get Subscriptions

Contract—Collect No Money!

Prepaid—Collect Cash!

You can earn a beautiful $3,120 Pierce-Arrow Sedan and $1,000 in gold—total value $4,120—in your spare time during the next few weeks by entering The Atlanta Constitution's $25,000 prize campaign.

The Pierce-Arrow Sedan and $1,000 in gold will be a gift to you—a reward for your efforts in getting your friends and acquaintances to read The Constitution regularly.

The campaign is just getting starting and ends May 31. There are many prizes. Even though you do not win the Pierce-Arrow Sedan and $1,000 in gold, there are still 17 other fine new automobiles and gold to be awarded. Besides the automobiles, there are 20 Atwater Kent Radios and cash commissions for all active non-prize winners. You're BOUND to get something valuable.

Credits are all you need to win and these credits are given you for securing renewal and new subscriptions to The Atlanta Constitution. You may get these subscriptions anywhere and from anyone and two plans are offered you for obtaining them.

You can take subscriptions by contract, whereby the New subscriber signs to take The Constitution for a period of 6 months or 12 months and they pay the carrier each week for the paper. You do not collect any money whatever for these subscriptions.

Or you can take prepaid subscriptions from both Old and New subscribers and they pay in advance.

The Atlanta Constitution's plan of taking ONLY contracts on New subscriptions and paid-in-advance on both Old and New makes it fair for all candidates as it precludes any possible chance of an agent or carrier to take a candidate's hundreds of Old subscribers' contracts which would be very unfair to those working for their subscriptions. The subscriptions are verified—bona fide—and the workers receive the rewards.

Now is the best possible time to enter—there never will be a better time to enter the campaign and get credits. New subscriptions secured now bring extra credits and you also have the opportunity of winning a part of $500 in Extra Gold.

How Prizes Will Be Awarded

To the candidate securing the highest total of credits during The Atlanta Constitution's $25,000 Prize Campaign will be awarded the $3,120 PIERCE-ARROW SEDAN (First Grand Prize and also $1,000 in gold); to the second highest candidate in credit standing will be given the $2,500 FRANKLIN SEDAN (Second Grand Prize and also $500 in gold). These awards will be made irrespective of the divisions or districts from which the winners may be entered.

After the two grand prize winners have been eliminated from further consideration, the totals in each of the four divisions (First Division) will be determined and to them will be given the $1,000 NASH SEDAN, the $1,000 CHRYSLER BROUGHAM and the $500 BUICK COACH. In the manner the three candidates highest in credit standing in the Outside Division (Second Division) will be determined and to them will be awarded, in the following order, the $1,000 REO SEDAN, $1,200 MAZDA-ROOSEVELT SEDAN and the $500 PONTIAC SEDAN. These divisions carry awards will be made irrespective of district boundaries in each division.

After the two grand prize winners and the six division prize winners of cars have been eliminated from further competition, next will be determined the leader in each district will be awarded one of the five 1928 CHEVROLET COACHES or one of the five 1928 FORD TUDOR SEDANS. The second highest candidate in credit standing in each district will be given a $174.50 ATWATER KENT RADIO, and the third highest candidate in credit standing in each district will be given a $146.50 ATWATER KENT RADIO.

No candidate can win more than one of the above listed prizes. All candidates not winning a regular prize will be paid a cash commission of ten per cent on all new prepaid subscriptions and five per cent on all new contract subscriptions turned in by them, providing they remain active from time of entry and turn in at least $50 in new subscriptions.

The campaign ends May 31, 1930.

Regular Credit Value of Subscriptions

Subscription rates of The Atlanta Constitution are shown below, together with the regular number of credits allowed on both new and old subscription payments. Candidates are not limited to districts; subscriptions may be obtained anywhere. Positively no subscription accepted for less than six months.

MARIETTA, Ga., April 2.—The marriage of Miss Marian Morgan Hodges and Joseph Lynch Anthony was quietly solemnized in Marietta at the home of the bride's cousins, Dr. and Mrs. Nath Thompson, yesterday afternoon. Immediately after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Anthony left on a bridal trip to Long Beach, Miss., and New Orleans, La. Upon their return they will be at home at 319 Church street, Decatur.

Miss Martha Pritchard Weds Morris Brandon, Jr., at Church

Outstanding among social events of the spring was the wedding of Miss Martha Pritchard, lovely young daughter of Mrs. Louis N. Pritchard, and Morris Brandon, Jr., which was beautifully solemnized last evening before a fashionable gathering of Atlanta society, at 8:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church, on Peachtree street, the ceremony being performed by Dr. J. Spole Lyon.

The church was exquisitely decorated with quantities of palms, Easter lilies, and on the altar were baskets of lilies and hydrangeas, in blue and pink shades. Four cathedral candles were placed in the background of the altar. A program of nuptial music was rendered by Charles Shelton, and Lohegrin's Wedding March was used as a processional, while Mendelssohn's wedding march was used as a recessional.

Miss Thornhill Gives Luncheon.

DECATUR, Ga., April 2.—Miss Nannie Thornhill entertained a number of her friends at a luncheon at her home on McDonough street, in Decatur recently. Those invited were Misses Hannah Jones, Caroline Lebetter, Ruth Dunaway, Pat Bryant, Betty Jones, Flora Gaines, Virginia Davis, Lou Dixon, Rebecca Anderson, Harriet Keher and Mary Francis Davis.

Woman's Missionary Society To Be Guests.

Woman's Missionary Society of Nellie Dodd church will be entertained at a rummage tea at the home of Mrs. C. C. Sammon, 300 Washington street, this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Mrs. Sammon's circle will serve refreshments. Members of the society and others interested are invited to attend.

The groomsmen included Nathan Brandon, brother of the groom; Albert Pritchard, III, brother of the bride; Price Gilbert, Jr., and Robert Pegram, III. The ushers were Dr. J. D. Osborne, Parks Hunt, Charles Hurt, Van Jernigan, Kelly Matthews, and Wert Fauser.

Lovely Bride.

The beautiful bride entered the church with her uncle, Louis N. Pritchard, who gave her in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Imman Brandon, who was best man. She was attired in the same wedding gown worn by Mrs. Morris Brandon, mother of the groom, when, as Miss Harriet Imman, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walker Imman, she was married to Mr. Brandon on June 1, 1892. The becoming costume was of eggshell satin, fashioned on princess lines, the train being built into the gown. The waist line was fitted to the slender figure of the lovely bride, and the sleeves were long and very close fitting. The neckline was finished with a real lace bertha, of priceless value, and her slippers were of eggshell satin. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and valley lilies, and her only ornaments were a bracelet and brooch, gifts of the groom.

Mrs. Pritchard, mother of the bride, was crowned in black chiffon, made on long lines, with tiers of chiffon forming a short train, while her corsage was of orchids and valley lilies.

Wedding Journey.

Mr. and Mrs. Brandon left for a motor trip, and upon their return to Atlanta they will make their home with the groom's parents at their home on Pace Ferry road until the completion of their home on Pine Valley road. Mrs. Brandon's traveling costume was of two-tone blue crepe, with blue velvet coat, trimmed with lapin fur. Her hat was of blue bako straw, and she wore slippers of snake skin. Her corsage was of orchids and valley lilies.

Among the out of town guests were

Miss Horton Gives Criticism On Brahms Program

The Wednesday morning program of the morning music series of the Atlanta Music Club, with Miss Nana Tucker, chairman, met yesterday at Wesley Memorial auditorium and the program was of outstanding interest in that it was a Brahms program. Mrs. Elinor Whittemore King, violinist, chairman of the day, was assisted by Mrs. Charles Edward Bowman, pianist; Miss Helen Coyne Riley, mezzo-soprano, and Mrs. Charles Chalmers, accompanist.

The first number was the sonata for violin and piano, Op. 100, A major, rendered by Mrs. King and Mrs. Bowman in the characteristic style of Brahms. The sonata needs little comment for the music and the artists spoke for themselves. The work is in three movements, the first of which is allegro amabile, in complete sonata form with the two customary themes, each of distinct lyric charm and eminently suited to the singing qualities of the violin. The second movement, andante, a fusion of the two normal middle cases, was composed of an emotional melody played with a superb tone by Mrs. King, contrasted with a lively scherzo-like theme. The third movement, allegretto grazioso quasi andante, in rondo form, displayed to advantage the technical skill and the ease of manipulation which both Mrs. King and Mrs. Bowman possess.

The second group on the program was a group of Brahms songs sung by Miss Helen Coyne Riley, representative of the Atlanta music center, with Mrs. Charles Chalmers at the piano. The group consisted of (a) "Wie melodiën zieht es mij," (b) "Komm Bold," (c) "Wir wandelten," (d) "Gehimms," (e) "Vergleiches Standchen." Miss Riley sang with her usual charming manner, with the rich, sonorous beauty which her voice possesses and with the sincere feeling of an artist. The song was given atmosphere in the accompaniment by the competent support of Mrs. Chalmers.

In the third group Mrs. Bowman verified her reputation as an artist of no little ability by her brilliant and forceful rendition of Brahms' "Scherzo, Op. 4, E flat minor," and the "Rhapsody, Op. 79, No. 2." Her ease of execution of the most difficult passages, yet her bracing vigor conveyed to the audience her true ability.

The last number was a group of violin solos by Mrs. King, with Mrs. Bowman at the piano, the first of which was the familiar waltz in A major, rendered with artistic feeling and clearness of tone. The next was a Joachim arrangement of two Hungarian dances, No. 4, B minor and No. 2, D minor. The spirit of the Hungarian dances with their entrancing harmonies and scintillating rhythms was admirably caught by Mrs. King and the brilliancy of her technique was well portrayed in the numbers. Her clearness of tone, her beauty and smoothness of phrasing and her cleanness in the execution of doublestops mark her as a stellar artist.

The audience was away Wednesday morning with an uplifted feeling and convinced that the works of Brahms will continue to live and live.

Stays Fat YET SHE EATS LIKE A BIRD

HERE'S THE REASON

MANY fat people deny themselves year after year, yet stay fat. Many injure themselves in the process. It is time they know what millions know, including all modern physicians. A common cause of excess fat lies in an under-active gland. And that fact will not disappear until this wrong condition is corrected.

Marmola prescription tablets contain the best factors now employed. A famous laboratory prepares them. The formula appears in every box, also the scientific reasons for results.

People have used Marmola for 22 years—millions of boxes of it. Users everywhere now show and tell the amazing and delightful results. They do not starve or over-exercise. They combat the cause by feeding a gland factor which is scant, and which largely controls nutrition.

Why not do what so many have done, with such good results, for so long. Learn by a test what this method does, then carry it as far as you wish. Do this in faith to yourself, to please your family and friends. Tell others who need this help. Go start today.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 a box. Any druggist who is out will gladly order for you.

"She has escaped the ill-effects of colds and upsets because, at the first sign of a cold, of bad breath, coated tongue or feverishness, I open her bowels with California Fig Syrup. She loves its taste and I like its gentle, thorough action."

Mothers by thousands praise California Fig Syrup. For fifty years physicians have endorsed this pure vegetable product. It tones and strengthens stomach and bowels; stimulates appetite; encourages digestion and assimilation. Its use helps make sailors, listless children rosy and energetic.

NEW YORK, April 2.—(P)—Recent advances in cotton were followed by reactions today under realigning promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables and a somewhat easier technical position. Further covering by old crop shorts and some buying of new crops on unfavorable features in the weekly weather report were supplied on market bulge from early declines and after selling up from 16.33 to 16.47 may declined to 16.27 and closed at 16.32. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 14 to 28 points.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 8 points with active months showing net losses of about 4 to 13 points right after the opening in response to the relatively easy cables. The near months seemed in less urgent demand with July easing off to 16.35 and the October contract to 15.72, but this brought in a renewal of covering by May and July shorts, which seemed to come partly from the trade.

There was some buying of later deliveries which may have been encouraged by reports that farm work in the south had made poorer progress because of the weather. Weather conditions and there were rallies which carried prices back to about yesterday's closing quotations. July sold up to 16.38 or 2 points net higher and the near October to 15.70, or within 2 points of yesterday's closing quotations, but the demand tapered off on this advance and prices weakened again later under renewed realigning.

July broke to 16.30 and the near October to 15.71 in the late trading when the general list showed net losses of about 15 to 28 points.

The weekly report of the weather bureau said very little cotton was put in during the week because of the low temperatures and that preparation of seed beds had been retarded, although in most sections this work was rather well advanced. This report came in for some comment, but attention still seemed to be more or less absorbed by the near month situation and fluctuations in differences between months or between markets. At the close May was 70 points below the near October compared with 60 yesterday.

Liverpool cables said the demand was less insistent with continental and local buying further reduced. Exports totaled 5,924,252 so far this season. Port receipts 9,607. United States port stocks 1,830,016.

SPOTS TUMBLE AT NEW ORLEANS.

NEW ORLEANS, April 2.—(P)—The cotton market was comparatively quiet today and prices fluctuated under definite trend, until late trading when increased offerings wiped out an early gain and carried prices off about $1 a bale under the day's highs. May after advancing to 16.20 eased off to 15.97 and closed at 16.02 for a net loss of 21 points. The general market closed steady at net declines of 21 to 26 points.

Liverpool cables were 6 to 10 points lower than the day's market had opened at declines of 10 to 13 points. Prices continued on the down grade after the start under the influence of the weak English market and May traded off to 16.05 and July 16.15, or 15 to 20 points down from the previous close. October contracts lost only 14 points, but the market rallied in the morning the market rallied on a renewed demand for old crop positions and May advanced to 16.20 and July 16.30, or 15 points above the low of the October sold up to 15.80, or only 2 points up.

Demand appeared to be supplied at the recovery and the market became quiet, prices gradually easing off during the afternoon. May broke through the 16 cent line to 15.97, and July eased to 16.05 while October dropped to 15.85, or 22 to 25 points down from the highs.

The market recovered a little at the end and old crop positions closed about 5 to 9 points above the lowest while October showed a rally of only 3 points.

30 TAX COLLECTIONS REACH $627,524,917

WASHINGTON, April 2.—(AP)—Although the treasury department's final report for March showed an increase in income tax collections for nine months of the fiscal year, it was estimated that this total for the year would fall $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 short of estimates last December.

Income tax collections for the first nine months of the fiscal year, which ends with June, were $1,812,337,844, an increase of $125,574,244 over the same period of the previous fiscal year. Collections for the first quarter, however, usually drop about $50,000,000, indicating a considerable decrease from the estimated $2,480,000,000. The first three months of this calendar year brought in only $627,524,917.

The department said also that income tax collections for March had totaled $55,568,703, a decrease of $42,000,000 from the same month last year, while it had been estimated this decrease would be $50,000,000. This smaller decrease was accepted, indicating that losses in the stock market decline last fall had not been as large as anticipated.

Total tax receipts for the nine months of the fiscal year were reported as $3,042,150,971, indicating a probable total for the year of $4,025,681,000. Miscellaneous receipts, however, might make the difference. Out of an indicated surplus at present of $109,941,826, the treasury must take $100,000,000 recently allotted to the federal farm loan.

A decrease in the gross debt of the nation to $16,289,624,568, on March 31, as compared with $16,459,508,732 on February 28, also was reported.

INSURANCE FLOT SEEN IN ARKANSAS KILLING

BENTONVILLE, Ark., April 2.—(AP)—An intriguing story of an insurance swindle plot in which one of the conspirators was supposedly double-crossed and slain was unfolded today to officers and the grand jury by a pretty girl, formerly Miss Pearl Powell, after identifying the body of a man found shot to death near here last Saturday as that of William Folta, a big, fat, middle-aged automobile mechanic of Columbia, Mo., launched into her story.

Dr. A. J. Bass, retired dentist and prominent local dealer of Columbia, is held in jail here on first degree murder charge and is accused by officers as having been the "master mind" in the alleged plot.

Identity of the victim, which had been in doubt after the family of William Folta had exploded Dr. Bass' identification of the man as Folta, was cleared up by the satisfaction of officials by the ex-waitress, admitted confidante of Pearman.

Dr. Bass held an assignment of insurance policies worth $200,000 on a man named William Folta, whom the state charges is not the slain man. Insurance adjusters identified the body as that of the man who obtained the insurance but would not attempt to say whether the man was Folta or Pearman.

Two Columbia mechanics, Z. P. Sullivan and Harry Ziegler, who were identified by Miss Powell's identification. Meanwhile Pearman's wife and two children were on their way here from Columbia to view the body.

Gravette near by was found by a roadside with three bullet wounds in the head.

Mrs. Powell, who said she had suspected Pearman of being in a "crooked" deal for some time and that his death came as no particular surprise to her, declared she had known Pearman for more than two years.

Pearman left Columbia March 21 to go to Kansas City, she said and she received a wire from him there a few days later saying he would return to Columbia last Thursday. When he failed to return and had not communicated with her by Sunday she read of the mysterious slaying here and went to town to tell her she believed the body of the man to be Pearman's.

Mrs. Powell said Pearman confided to her last November that he and Bass were involved in a big insurance plot in Arkansas and told her three persons involved in it expected to get $85,000 each out of it. Later, she said, he told her Pearman had been admitted as a partner in the deal.

She said also Pearman told her about being examined last Thanksgiving Day for a big insurance policy. Outlining his mechanical job about the time he mentioned his connection with Bass, Mrs. Powell said he began making occasional business trips out of the city and also showing sudden affluence.

She knew he was going under an assumed name, she said. He began wearing a wig when out of town and time he left. She quoted Pearman as saying he obtained money from Dr. Bass. In posing as another man, he also told her, she said, he had to attract wealthy and that he maneuvered his nails for him many times at his request.

Prosecutor J. S. Combs' theory of the case is that the alleged conspirators learned William Folta, whose family lives at Martinsburg, Mo., had been missing 17 years and induced Pearman to pose as Folta to get the insurance policies. Pearman probably was told, Combs says, that after the policies were issued he would disappear or another person would be substituted for him and slain. The prosecutor's theory is that after policies were issued and assigned supposedly in a deal for land, Pearman was to be "double-crossed" and gunned hire to kill him.

Tech High Wins Second Straight Game To Take Prep League Lead

SMITHIES BEAT FULTON, 10 TO 2, FOR TOP PLACE

English Holds County Boys; Loose Fielding Aids T. H. S.

Tech High made it two straight and went to the top of the prep league baseball standing Wednesday afternoon with a 10 to 2 victory over Fulton High at Brisbane park. It was a game postponed last week because of wet grounds and cold weather.

Jack English, flashy basketball and tennis star and pitcher, was on the mound for the Smithies and hurled a great game. He allowed Fulton only two hits, one a double by Clonts and was never in trouble. He walked only a couple of batters and struck out seven men.

Wray pitched for Fulton and allowed 11 hits. He struck out eight of the Tech batters and slowed up considerably after his mates had made 11 errors which aided materially in the Tech High scoring.

The SPORTLIGHT

Soul Wrecking Stuff.
Having just returned from the inspection of a young April cyclone at Augusta, Ga., there is still left the echo of great winds and heavy thunder. No wonder some of the best golf pros in the world thought they were in the midst of a whirlwind.

The question has been often asked as to why so many fine golfers find it difficult to give out their best stuff when the Georgia entry is on the program. Anyone who followed the play at Augusta would have picked up the answer in a hurry.

The two courses at Augusta were both championship battlefields. The Forest-Ricker course is around 6,600 yards in length, often narrow and always well-trapped. There was no way of merely scraping out a good score. One had to keep hitting the ball with every club.

Jones started with Gene Sarazen and Al Espinosa, two fine golfers. He started with two fives. But for the next 31 holes he made good golf look ragged.

It was easy to see in this last double round why even a fine golfer might stumble and drop back. For after starting with two fives Jones played the next 31 holes in 11 strokes under even four. He was putting for a birdie on practically every hole. For these 31 consecutive holes his tee shots were soaring from 260 to 280 yards down the middle, every type of iron was thumping the ball up around the pin, from a number 1 to a masher niblick, and his putting over keen, sloping greens was remarkable, true and consistent.

Just about all these qualities are needed if one is to play 31 holes in 11 under four, which is practically the same as 11 under par. An opponent not only has to be a great golfer to face this pace, but he must be a great golfer at the top crest of his game—a great golfer on a good day.

Otherwise he will soon be melted by the terrific heat that is burning up the course from wood and iron. Just good, average golf begins to look too puny and in the effort to match this display a fine game might soon turn spotty and sour.

Missouri Still Checks In.
Horton Smith's performance in this second meeting with Jones was much finer than it looked to be. In the first place, he had never seen either course. In the second place, he was finishing a hard week of all-day golf.

On top of these handicaps he had to start at 7:30 a. m. the second day to finish 36 holes before 2 o'clock, for a plane was waiting to take him north and cover the 400 miles before dark.

Yet in the face of these trials and tribulations and handicaps, the Missouri star led the professional field which included such ranking stars as Johnny Farrell, Sarazen, Budley, Turnesa, Espinosa, Whiffey Cox, Kerrigan, Burke, Manero, Cooper and many others who are well known in the upper flight.

Smith's New Niblick.
Smith reported with a new type of niblick which caught the crowd's attention from the jump. It was a shallow-faced looking instrument with a flange at the back and a curved, rounded bottom—a new invention by some Texas enthusiast.

It proved to be a great club for chipping out of traps, traps that were not too deep. The ball came out much after the manner of a short chip and run, and it usually came out and stopped somewhere around the pin. It flicked through the sand easily and as Smith handled it the club never failed.

The tall mid-westerner proved again that a golfer at last has come along who can match Jones at chipping and putting.

Smith again showed the remarkable control and touch around the greens that has been such a factor in his consistent scoring. It was rare on any long approach putt from 40 to 70 feet away that he left himself more than a two-footer for the cup, and this over keen greens with baffling slopes that he had never seen before. He has the inborn instinct for touch that only a few have ever known—Travis, Travers, Hagen and Jones, to name those at the top in this respect.

The Joplin wanderer is hitting the ball easily and smoothly with both wood and iron, and if he doesn't become over-golfed he will have a much better chance abroad on his next attempt a trifle later on.

Duke University gets Wallace Wade from Alabama, which indicates that Duke intends to be heard from in much louder tones after 1931 in a football way. Wade was a big factor in changing the Crimson Tide from a small stream into a rushing current, and Duke happens to get one of the soundest system builders in the game.

RELAY ENTRIES CLOSE TODAY; HUGE LIST SEEN

Alexander Swamped With Blanks Total May Mount to 700.

By Herb Clark.

Prospects for the eighth annual southern relay carnival, set for Grant field on the afternoons of April 11 and 12, grow brighter and brighter every day.

Coach W. A. Alexander, daddy of the Tech classic, is being swamped with entries. The lists close today, and the field given to the relay is of a 700-mark by the time for starting.

The grammar schools have had their innings. The youngsters. And a few seniors with their barefooted and faint-eyed determination, have run off their trial heats and the final 12 teams, six from the north side and six from the south, have been selected and are at present training for their dashes to glory on April 12.

TRACK-MINDED.
Athletics throughout the south—college and prep school and high school colleges—are training hard as well. These older lads are becoming track-minded. The south has languished in a rut for many years, but is just before coming out of the storm. And with the south, with its abundant talent, does come out, it should be out with a bang. One day records will fall before a concerted assault. And that day might just as well be April 11, high school day, or April 12, when the collegians go out to do business as any other some time in the future.

In addition to the racing for his entry blanks, Coach Alexander has spent some time in arranging the time schedule for the two-day program. Fitting a total of 42 events into the space of two afternoons has been no easy task. It works, in fact, like an intricate Chinese puzzle, one of those with intricate mortises and weirdly placed dowels.

The cinders at the Flats are to be kept hot. There will be few idle moments for the fans. And the infield is to be in an ever-bruised state from the incessant falling of the shot, the discus and the javelin and the pounding of feet alighting after leaps and vaults.

VERY ACTIVE.
Too, a three-ring circus, the time-honored epitome of perpetual action and entertainment, will not even come close to the relays for keeping the eyes of the audience jumping from point to point.

The appended schedule will give an idea of just how busy the field would be, even with the meet held to a two-team classic. With at least 700 athletes expected to compete, the days should be veritable whirlwinds.

All Efforts Made To Assist Don in Trials, English Writer Says

CAR'S DESIGNER LENT EVERY AID TO BRITISH ACE

Rumors That Don Was Forced Into Suicidal Try Called False.

(Note—Kaye Don's attempts to break the world automobile speed record at Daytona Beach have given rise to reports of friction in the Don camp, and friction between the Don followers and Daytonians. Some of these stories have even caused rumors that Don was being coerced into a suicidal action. The Daytona Beach situation is discussed herewith by Trevor Wignall, leading sports critic of Great Britain, and correspondent of the London Daily Express, who was sent to Daytona Beach to report Don's attempt.)

By Trevor Wignall, London Daily Express Correspondent.

(Written for the United News.) NEW YORK, April 2.—The impression that seems to have been abroad that Kaye Don, the British driver, has not received the help and encouragement to which he is entitled from the Americans connected with the speed trials at Daytona Beach needs to be corrected.

I was on the spot for a month, and my very definite feeling is that the hickering and dissensions that quickly became town talk were created by the main by Don's own friends and associates. The full story of this, the most unfortunate of all speed trials, is far too long to tell, but of my own knowledge I can say that the troubles started immediately after Don had touched 105 miles an hour when he made his first run on March 15.

Timers Not Ready. Unfortunately the timekeepers and their apparatus were not ready for the spot. If they had been it is possible that Don would have gone for the record that Saturday afternoon when the beach and visibility were good. But these officials had not been warned to be present, and therefore were not to blame. Every time Don went out after that something went wrong with the car, but it is true to say that the only other time when the beach was in good condition was on Tuesday, March 18.

The city of Daytona's officials were invariably ready for any call. I went to many trouble to discover whether Don was being handicapped by anyone. I say seriously that he was not, and that every effort was made to assist him.

But some idea of the suspicions aroused will be gained from the attitude towards the end of Odie Porter, the veteran who has timed most of the big motor races in America. He told me repeatedly that he felt that someone was trying to double-cross him, and since last Saturday he never went on to the beach without taking his apparatus with him.

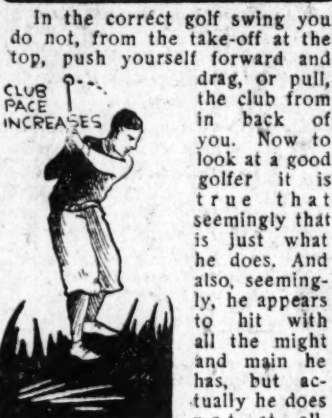

Coatlen Worried. Louis Coatlen, the designer of the car, with whom I spent considerable time at Daytona, was in a state of great worry throughout, but I want to contradict the assertions that he was negotiating with Malcolm Campbell, the British driver, and Cannonball Baker and Bob McDonough, the Americans, to supersede Don.

Coatlen's confidence in Don's ability, especially in changing gears, may have suffered, but he was always working to help him. I got out of Daytona rapidly because I was sick of the constant complications, which were occurring right up to the instant of my departure.

It got so that no one could make a move without antagonizing the others, but matters would have gone sweetly enough if the elementary principle of consulting others interested had been remembered. Don's manner did not commend itself to the Americans, but he must not be judged too harshly in this respect, for he is still totally unused to American methods, particularly of publicity.

If he erred at all it was in not attempting to fit himself to these methods. He was badly advised by

GOOD GOLF

In the correct golf swing you do not, from the take-off at the top, push yourself forward and drag, or pull, the club from in back of you. Now to look at a good golfer it is true that it is just what he does. And also, seemingly, he appears not at all. Rather, the club will be just slightly ahead of you all the way, and will swing through with constantly increasing pace in a manner that makes it go through first, with your body swinging through in back of it. That is the way it appears to be, and you say that, theoretically, that is what happens. But the fact is everything goes through together, and in rhythmic union of action, although there is the predominant fact, never to be lost sight of, that the club leads. In the bottom arc of its swing what happens is that it travels at such increasing velocity that it goes fast enough to catch up with, and pass, your hands, doing this because your wrists "let out," toward the ball. This action as a whole gives you that impression that your body is "behind the club all the way."

A. A. U. EXTENDS DON'S SANCTION

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., April 2.—(P)—Extension of the sanction of the American Automobile Association contest board for Daytona's speed trials for an indefinite period was announced today by W. D. Edmundo, A. A. U. representative and chief steward of the trials.

The extension was granted following Kaye Don's request to the city for an indefinite time for the trials, since beach conditions and minor mechanical difficulties have combined to prevent a satisfactory record attempt of the "Silver Bullet."

Don plans to spend the day in Miami tomorrow while his eight mechanics complete the work of reducing the gear ratio of the car for greater speed. His sister, Mrs. Rita Livesey, who accompanied him here from England, plans to return home Sunday.

Edmundo left tonight for Detroit after announcing that he would return when beach conditions improved sufficiently for a record attempt. During his absence the American Automobile Association connection will be maintained by L. Warren Baker, Jacksonville, member of the contest board.

Before departing for the north, Edmundo took occasion to deny reports said to have been cable to England that Don was urged to drive his car on an unsuitable beach, either in a practice or record attempt.

Secret Service. Adolfo Luque, pitcher, and Alfonso Lopez, catcher, are Cubans with the Dodgers and carry on conversation in Spanish. Those around him from the start. The story published that he was being forced into a suicidal action on Monday was sheer poppycock, and did little credit to the intelligence of those who spread it. If Don could have been separated from his English companions, things, I feel sure, would have gone well, but my anxiety in this matter is solely to correct the rumors that the Americans with whom I myself came in contact were not at all times willing and eager to give him every possible assistance at any hour of the day or night.

ITALY BOASTS ONE NET STAR; NEEDS ANOTHER

Baron de Morspurgo Keeps Country to Fore in International Tennis.

By Vincent Richards. (Copyright, 1930, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance.) If Italy had a player to equal Baron de Morspurgo I should hate to say what Davis cup team in the European zone could beat her, outside of France.

Morspurgo for four or five years has been one of the outstanding tennis stars of the continent, a player who, on his day, can make it interesting for anyone.

Two years ago, in recognition of his playing ability and his services to the game in Italy, Baron de Morspurgo was made "dictator of tennis" by Mussolini, another way of saying that he was supreme and a power by himself.

Most of the world's first ten rankings include him, and he is likely to cut a figure in the 1930 Davis cup matches.

LACKS ANOTHER. Unfortunately for Italy, however, she has no player in the same rank with Morspurgo and that was the reason she fell a victim to Germany last year by the score of 3 to 2. Giorgio de Stefani and P. Gaslini are the two next best Italian players.

It may be de Stefani will show enough improvement this year to give Italy a better balanced team. Or it is possible Morspurgo will have an ace up his sleeve in some rising young player he will choose to use for the experience and with an eye to the future. A del Bono, R. Boccardo and L. Bonzi are three other players who may receive consideration, either for the second singles or for the doubles.

Tennis has taken such a hold on the Italian public that it would not be surprising if Italy turned out some of the best players in the world in the future. In 1928, when the United States played Italy in the interzone match, interest was at fever heat, partly because of the Tilden episode, when Big Bill was barred from the United States team because of his newspaper writings, and when de Morspurgo beat Hunter in the singles he became the hero of the hour.

Earlier the same year Italy had beaten Australia, and one of the matches was so bitterly contested that the umpire was driven from his chair because of the unpopularity of his decisions.

Baron de Morspurgo beat both the veteran Gerald Patterson, formerly ranked among the world's first 10 players, and Jack Crawford, perhaps the best young player in the Antipodes today. He also won his doubles match, so, virtually single-handed, he vanquished a strong Australian team.

From this it will be seen how really good a player the Italian "dictator of tennis" is, and why Italy must be taken seriously by the other nations in the European zone.

The interzone round match Italy played with the United States was the closest she has come to getting into the challenge round. But with the interest in the game what it is today in Italy, and far more players

Ouch, That Hurt! Bryan Downey Handed Old Man Jack Britton a Jolt in Bout at Canton.

BY JACK BRITTON. Former World's Waterweight Champion. (Copyright, 1930, by The North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Bryan Downey hit me the hardest shot in my 26 years' experience inside the ropes. The punch he landed on my chin in our match in Canton, Ohio, made a joke out of the boxing commission in Columbus, 130 miles away.

We had fought a 12-round no-decision bout in Columbus. Bryan gave me a good argument but weakened near the end. Because I didn't knock him out the ring censors set me down for three months. Downey weighed around 152. He was a dangerous, rushing, swinging fighter as he showed later when he had Johnny Wilson on the floor more than once in their famous championship party in Cleveland.

I had a little trouble outboxing Downey, at Canton. He came in pell-mell and I stabbed and painted him with my left glove. I just kept my eyes wide open and didn't take any unnecessary chances. But I made a mistake in the 11th round, and that was Bryan's good fortune.

Coming out of a clinch, I pulled back straight instead of to one side, and Downey tagged me with a left hook smack on the button. The next thing I knew I was stretched in the center of the ring, on my side, and the Youngstown fire chief, who was refereeing, stuck five fingers in front of my face. Everybody was standing on top of chairs yelling, and I couldn't hear what the chief had to say.

When he opened his mouth and waved six fingers, it dawned on me that I was in a tight. Thoughts ran through my mind faster than they do with a drowning man. It occurred to me that if I got up I might fall down again. I wanted something to steady myself with. Then my eyes fell on the ropes.

With the fire chief's pantomime act spurring me on I made for the ropes, crawling on my hands and knees. The yells that filled the building changed into laughter. I reached my destination just as the referee beside me sang out "Get up!" At "Get up!" I pulled myself to my feet, turned around with the same motion to steady myself, putting my back to the ropes.

Downey, his feet spread wide apart and with a look of complete surprise on his face, was standing almost on the other side of the ring. The time he wasted making up his mind what to do next helped me a lot to get over the woozy feeling. Downey came charging like a bull, swinging wild. I rolled my head and easily avoided him.

In the twelfth and last round I was weak, but my noodle was in good health. I discovered that I wasn't hurt as much as I thought.

being developed than in the past, that country should be a formidable contender for honors in the future.

This year it does not seem that she has enough balanced strength to go through a field including England, Australia, Germany and Japan, but it may be predicted that whatever country meets her will know that there has been a scrap. Morspurgo alone can be expected to fight to the end, and if de Stefani and Gaslini have improved since 1929 the Italians may upset a lot of expectations.

Mobile Club Sale Branded as Rumor

MOBILE, Ala., April 2.—(UN)—Jimmy Hamilton, principal owner of the Mobile baseball club of the Southern league, wants it definitely understood that the club franchise still remains in Mobile, regardless of rumors, and will remain there unless he receives a "very good" offer for its sale, he told the United News today.

Hamilton pointed out the offer of transfer to Knoxville, after all, was only for transfer of the franchise and no sale, and that to accept the proposition he would have to have good proof that his prospects were better in the Tennessee city.

Reports that Hunter Watkins and Bill Page, both of Birmingham, have propositioned Hamilton concerning purchase of the franchise brought denials from the majority owner of the Bears.

Finals Set Today In Women's Meet

Miss Margaret Maddox and Mrs. C. E. Williamson will play 18 holes over the Druid Hills golf course today for the championship of the first flight in the first match play tournament for members of the Atlanta Women's Golf Association. Miss Maddox defeated Mrs. M. G. Kurfess, 4-3, and Mrs. Williamson defeated Mrs. Helen Lowndes 1-up on the 19th green.

In the second flight Mrs. Roy Burns defeated Mrs. L. W. Grunard 4-3, and Mrs. O. B. Keeler defeated Mrs. H. C. Moore 1-up. Mrs. Burns will play Mrs. Keeler for the second flight title honors today.

In the third flight Mrs. Garrett defeated Mrs. Carlisle Fraser 1-up and Mrs. Gillard defeated Miss Taylor 1-up on the 20th green. Mrs. Garrett will play Mrs. Gillard for the championship of the third flight.

Four of the six matches ended 1-up and two of those four were won on extra holes, making it one of the most interesting tournaments ever to be staged by women golfers of the city.

In today's matches Mrs. Williamson has a 15-stroke handicap on Miss Maddox and the match should be one of the most interesting of the entire three days' play. Both players played steady, consistent golf Wednesday to win their matches.

"You'd be surprised," replied the sprightly Sophia. "With a rasping voice like yours, love is likely to fly out of the window and land on the back of its neck. What our love needs is insurance."

"What insurance?" he wondered.

"The insurance of OLD GOLDS, boy friend. Throat-ense and tender tones caused by the mellow, mild, heart-leaf tobacco; vocal cords that act without a struggle; no tickle, scratch or scrape. OLD GOLD yourself, Marmie, and we shall be inseparable. There's not a bark in a billion."

George Is Indorsed
At Lawyers' Meeting
Unanimous indorsement of the candidacy of James M. George for clerk of Fulton superior court was voiced Wednesday afternoon by 50 lawyers at a meeting in Judge Jesse M. Wood's courtroom.
With Harold T. Dillon as chairman and W. J. Laney as secretary, those present organized themselves into a committee to work for the election of George, former chief marshal of the municipal court of Atlanta.
Speeches were made by Cam D. Dorsey, Carlton W. Binns, James W. Watson and others. Dorsey said that the entire office force in the clerk's office had requested George's appointment to fill the unexpired term of the late Thomas C. Miller. The deputy clerk were elected for four years and have served only a year and three months. Defeat of George would mean that the office force would be turned out and the work of handling the court records turned over to inexperienced hands, he said.

MRS. PARKS TO QUIT AS LEADER OF P.-T. A.

Politics Blamed in Statement
Made by Atlanta Council Head.

On the eve of the monthly meeting of the Atlanta Council Parent-Teacher Association slated for 10 o'clock this morning at city hall, Mrs. H. G. Parks, president, announced her decision to retire from active work in the local and state organization because "politics has destroyed the objectives of the association."
Mrs. Parks declined to amplify her statement other than to say she will sever her connection with the local group at the meeting of that body early in June and that she will relinquish her post as treasurer of the Georgia Congress of Parents and Teachers and will withdraw her membership at the annual meeting of that body slated for Macon, April 14, 1930.
"I have given many years of my life to the cause of childhood," she said, "and when I see that politics is beginning to weave its influence in the organization, I feel that my service has ended inside that organization. Too many members wish to offload their own private quarrels on the organization and they have lost their usefulness—that is just what is the matter with P.-T. A. work today."
"I have served gladly and freely in the P.-T. A. and I think it is the greatest work in the world. I know and feel that I have helped to raise the standards of P.-T. A. work in this field. I shall continue to work for the good of the child. I wish all success to the P.-T. A. and I shall watch their progress with interest."
